THE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CENT.

By Frank A. Leach.

People passing through the San Francisco Mint during the past few months have been witnesses to a new coinage for this Coast—namely, the making of copper cents, and in quantities not measured by pounds, but by tons. That copper cents should become so much a part of the circulating medium of California and other parts of the Pacific Coast as to require a good part of the time and capacity of the local mint to supply the coins, is something that the coast business men of thirty or thirty-five years ago would have hardly dared to predict. At that period, even the five-cent piece was a despised coin, but time in the other changes wrought in business affairs and social conditions has produced a situation whereby big corporations with millions of capital invested solely depend upon the receipt of nickels, and nickels only, for its revenue and profit, and the copper cent, the smallest coin of our Government, is almost in general use. In the majority of the big retail stores and by many other business houses, the penny is given out and taken in making change. These thoughts carry the memory back to a still earlier date in California—in the Fifties—when dimes were the smallest coins in circulation and were valued little more, if any, then, than the pennies here now. In fact, in many places, the quarter-dollar piece was the smallest coin accepted. This was especially true of drug stores where twenty-five cent purchases were the smallest that would be considered.

The first United States cent coined outside of the Philadelphia Mint, was struck at the San Francisco Mint, November 24, 1908. For many years—in fact, from the time the first mint was

A New Departure!

The writer has found it advisable to add a new department to his business, that of THE ANCIENT ARTS. The objects will be mostly Egyptian, Greek and Roman, with occasional Etruscan, Phoenician and Babylonian pieces. These he will offer for sale from time to time at very moderate prices, as consignments are received. Each piece is guaranteed genuine as represented, the guarantee holding good indefinitely. As the importation of these objects is prohibited in nearly all foreign countries, most of them come from excavations in Syria. The articles being themselves all more or less rare, the supply is becoming more meagre each year and eventually must cease. A list of prices of pieces on hand is added at the end of this pamphlet. Mail or express charges will be extra on each lot.

Discoveries of Coins, Glass and other Antiquities in Ancient Syria.

It is said that the secret of glass manufacture was discovered by the Egyptians over 2500 years B.C. According to Pliny the process of manufacture of glass was discovered by the Tyrians on the shores of the River Belus, called now Ned'N, near Acre, a place situated south of Tyre, about nine hours by horseback. Pliny says that some Phoenician sailors trading in saltpeter, having gone ashore for the purpose of cooking their dinner, and not finding any stones upon which to build a hearth, improvised one of lumps of saltpeter which they brought from their ship, and when the meal was over they found among the ashes a semi-opaque, dull-shining mass, the result of the fusion of the saltpeter and sand, which proved to be glass.

The historian is therefore contradicted by the modern sciences, although he does not seem to be entirely mistaken in his story, because Phoenicia in the earliest periods was during many centuries under the yoke of Egypt, and the finding of glass in Pharaohs' tombs from the twenty-fifth century B.C. does not prove that glass in its rude state was not made on the southern shores of Syria. It would seem to be more reasonable to attribute the discovery of glass-making to a maritime nation, credited among other discoveries and inventions with the addition of sails to ships, hitherto dependent on oars, an invention that enabled them to make longer voyages and to extend their trade; with the manufacture of a rich dye—the world-famous Tyrian people—obtained from the murex, a species of shell-fish that abounded in their waters; with the making of wine and other inventions, rather than to the Egyptians.

Whether the incident related by Pliny is true or not, and whether the process of making glass was first discovered in Egypt or somewhere else, it is certain that the Phoenicians excelled in the manufacture of glass, and most of the glass came from Syria.

NOTES ON THE
EARLIEST THALER AND HALF THALER
OF TYROL
DATED 1484.

By CHARLES N. SCHMALL, New York.

In his work on the "Coinage of the European Continent," London 1893, William Carew Hazlitt says, page 16: "Austria is entitled to the honor of having produced the earliest dated thalers." In the year 1884 the Vienna Numismatic Society (Wiener Numismatische Gesellschaft), issued a souvenir thaler celebrating the four-hundredth anniversary of the striking of the first dollar-sized silver pieces in Tyrol. This commemorative piece is by A. Scharff and bears the portrait of the Archduke Sigismund, copied from his famous thaler dated 1484, and that of the late Austrian Emperor, Francis Joseph I (1848-1916).

The appearance of this jubilee piece under the auspices and sponsorship of so distinguished a body of eminent numismatic savants definitely established the position of the Tyrol dickthaler of 1484 as the first silver thaler of the world. It settled also the questions concerning the status, origin, classification, and possible priority of the following six coins, which purport to bear earlier dates:

I. The thaler of Bingen dated 1438, bearing the title of Dietrich I., Schenk von Erbach, Archbishop of Mainz (1434-59). This piece has been shown to be a fraudulent production from the hand of the forger Becker. It may have been created with the intention of claiming for this town the distinction of having issued the earliest thaler. The evidence against its authenticity is decisive. (Cappe 636; Schulthess-Rechberg 3488; Prinz Alexander 160.)

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY, 1926.

No. 1.

Published by The Elder Coin & Curio Corporation,
No. 9 East Thirty-Fifth Street, New York.
THOMAS L. ELDER, President and Treasurer.

WE MAKE OUR BOW

To wish you a Happy and Prosperous New Year will be our first act. This miniature Journal of The Collector will be sent to our patrons with each of our sale catalogues. You will have but to turn to the end of each catalog to find it. Do not expect too much and your disappointment or your contempt won't be great. Printed matter costs big in these days of high rents and fat salaries, therefore we will try to emulate the brevity which Shakespear praised as the soul of wit.

MR. ELDER'S RECORD AS A COLLECTOR.

- 1881. A Collector of Indian Arrow-heads.
- 1887. Coin Collection of his father, M. M. Elder, presented to him, introducing him to coins.
- 1895. A Collector of both Coins and Gems.
- 1896. Started in a small way to buy and sell coins.
- About 1897. Vice-President of the Am. Society of Curio Collectors.
- About 1897. He joined the A. N. A. His number is 145.
- 1900. A full-fledged dealer in Coins, Medals and Paper Money.
- 1902. Elected a member of the American Numis. & Arch. Society of N. Y.
- Early 1900s. Elected a Council Member of the British Numismatic Society.
- 1905. Brought up at the Am. Numismatic Society the matter of a more artistic coinage for the United States and was appointed Secretary of the Committee appointed by the Society to confer with President Roosevelt relative to improvement of the coinage.
- 1905. Held his first coin sale in New York City. A mail sale had been held previously in 1903 in Pittsburgh.
- 1907. Founded the New York Numismatic Club, and for several years was a member of the Council; later was its Secretary.

Discoveries of Coins, Glass and other Antiquities in Ancient Syria.

It is said that the secret of glass manufacture was discovered by the Egyptians over 2500 years B.C. According to Pliny the process of manufacture of glass was discovered by the Tyrians on the shores of the River Belus, called now Ned'N, near Acre, a place situated south of Tyre, about nine hours by horseback. Pliny says that some Phœnician sailors trading in saltpeter, having gone ashore for the purpose of cooking their dinner, and not finding any stones upon which to build a hearth, improvised one of lumps of saltpeter which they brought from their ship, and when the meal was over they found among the ashes a semi-opaque, dull shining mass, the result of the fusion of the saltpeter and sand, which proved to be glass.

OF TYROL
DATED 1484.

By CHARLES N. SCHMALL, New York.

In his work on the "Coinage of the European Continent," London 1893, William Carew Hazlitt says, page 16: "Austria is entitled to the honor of having produced the earliest dated thalers." In the year 1884 the Vienna Numismatic Society (Wiener Numismatische Gesellschaft), issued a souvenir thaler celebrating the four-hundredth anniversary of the striking of the first dollar-sized silver pieces in Tyrol. This commemorative piece is by A. Scharff and bears the portrait of the Archduke Sigismund, copied from his famous thaler dated 1484, and that of the late Austrian Emperor, Francis Joseph I (1848-1916).

The appearance of this jubilee piece under the auspices and sponsorship of so distinguished a body of eminent numismatic savants definitely established the position of the Tyrol dickthaler of 1484 as the first silver thaler of the world. It settled also the questions concerning the status, origin, classification, and possible priority of the following six coins, which purport to bear earlier dates:

I. The thaler of Bingen dated 1438, bearing the title of Dietrich I., Schenk von Erbach, Archbishop of Mainz (1434-59). This piece has been shown to be a fraudulent production from the hand of the forger Becker. It may have been created with the intention of claiming for this town the distinction of having issued the earliest thaler. The evidence against its authenticity is decisive. (Cappe 636; Schülthess-Rechberg 3488; Prinz Alexander 160.)

THE COLLECTOR'S NOTES.

Vol. I.

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY, 1926.

No. 1.

Published by The Elder Coin & Curio Corporation,
No. 9 East Thirty-Fifth Street, New York.
THOMAS L. ELDER, President and Treasurer.

WE MAKE OUR BOW

To wish you a Happy and Prosperous New Year will be our first act. This miniature Journal of The Collector will be sent to our patrons with each of our sale catalogues. You will have but to turn to the end of each catalog to find it. Do not expect too much and your disappointment or your contempt won't be great. Printed matter costs big in these days of high rents and fat salaries, therefore we will try to emulate the brevity which Shakespeare praised as the soul of wit.

MR. ELDER'S RECORD AS A COLLECTOR.

- 1881. A Collector of Indian Arrow-heads.
- 1887. Coin Collection of his father, M. M. Elder, presented to him, introducing him to coins.
- 1895. A Collector of both Coins and Gems.
- 1896. Started in a small way to buy and sell coins.
- About 1897. Vice-President of the Am. Society of Curio Collectors.
- About 1897. He joined the A. N. A. His number is 145.
- 1900. A full-fledged dealer in Coins, Medals and Paper Money.
- 1902. Elected a member of the American Numis. & Arch. Society of N. Y.
- Early 1900s. Elected a Council Member of the British Numismatic Society.
- 1905. Brought up at the Am. Numismatic Society the matter of a more artistic coinage for the United States and was appointed Secretary of the Committee appointed by the Society to confer with President Roosevelt relative to improvement of the coinage.
- 1905. Held his first coin sale in New York City. A mail sale had been held previously in 1903 in Pittsburgh.
- 1907. Founded the New York Numismatic Club, and for several years was a member of the Council; later was its Secretary.

CURIOUS COIN FACTS

The money mentioned in the Bible would possess about the following equivalents today: A shekel of silver, 32 cents; a shekel of gold, $10.

a talent of silver $2,000; a talent of gold $20,000;
a piece of silver, or penny, 17 cents; a gerah, 3 cents; a farthing, 1 cent; a widow's mite, less than a farthing.

In reference to a coin of the year 200 A. D., what is the meaning of the letters A. D. they mean After Christ and are the abbreviations of Anno Domini.

DIX'S of the CIVIL WAR

Curious how some tokens got their unique phrases, such as the "Dix" Copperhead, so popular in Civil War days. History will tell us how John Adams Dix, the acting secretary of the U.
S. Treasury in 1861, gave an order by telegram to a lieutenant named Caldwell which ended with the phrase "If anyone attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot."

Later, when tokens were being issued so profusely, one was made having on one side the flag of the United States, and around it, "The Flag of Our Union, 1863". The reverse contained the extract of the telegram referred to above, and in the center "DIX". These tokens struck a popular cord and were made by the thousand, and used as cents, passing current for change. These Dix tokens were slightly larger than the Indian Head cent, and were composed of alloys of copper and zinc. There are known to be nineteen or more varieties of this Dix token, one of which has the word "spot" misspelled, or "spoot".

ANNOUNCEMENT

Numismatology

Numismatology, (from Greek word, a coin discourse), is that branch of historical science which treats on coins and medals. The study of numismatology, especially of ancient coins and medals, is of importance in illustrating the history, chronology, geography, mythology, as well as the manners and customs of the states of the past. The historical evidence which they afford is superior to every other, because their testimony is contemporaneous; and unlike the works of ancient authors, they are not liable to be corrupted by the negligence of transcribers.

Coins and medals also afford us a pretty certain criterion of the progress of the fine arts at different periods and among various nations. Thus we are enabled to determine, not only from historical records, but likewise from an examination of ancient coins, that the golden age of the arts in Greece commenced about the time of Philip II of Macedon, that it continued under the reign of his son, Alexander the Great, and maintained itself for a considerable period under his successors.

Further, history gives us little information with respect to the state of the arts in several ancient countries, such as Greece, and Sicily, while with regard to others, such as Bolotia, Bithynia etc., historical testimony seems to deny them all pretension to taste. But we know from existing monuments, that in Great Greece and Sicily the arts must have flourished in a very high degree, for even their coins in most common use are executed in a style of singular beauty.

From the same source we learn that the natives of Bolotia and Bithynia, as well as the more celebrated states of Greece, possessed a fine feeling of all that is beautiful in art.

But this taste prevailed not merely in the larger cities of Greece, where it might be fostered by wealth and luxury; it extended to their remotest colonies, and their most insignificant communities. How unimportant, for example, is the history of Sybarita, one of the smallest towns in Crete! Yet the coins struck there will stand a comparison with the finest that ever were executed in Greece. The same may be said of the Sonian colony which established itself in Gaul, and founded the town of Marseilles; of Cyreneans in Africa, and of the Macedonian colony which Alexander the Great left behind him in Bactriana.

After the conquest of Greece by the Romans, and the transference of its treasures to Rome, the arts

Announcement

This publication will be sent you every once in awhile with our compliments. It is our purpose to make it more than a "price list". We are going to tell the stories and incidents connected with the many interesting coins you may have, or wish to have, in your collection.

Many inexpensive coins, of great historical importance are neglected by collectors in America. We believe the reason for this neglect is chiefly because the associated stories seldom appear in print. They are hidden away in books that are expensive if not altogether impossible to obtain. Or in books written in a foreign language that is not easily translated by the average collector. It is not our intention to publicize coins that are beyond the reach of most collectors. In our opinion, a tetradrachm of Alexander the Great or an antoninianus of Diocletianus are coins worthy of a place in any collection. These, and many other inexpensive coins, of similar historical importance will be given recognition in following issues.

If Coin Topics helps you in forming a really interesting cabinet of coins we will consider our efforts worthwhile.

We would appreciate knowing your opinion of our form of advertising. An occasional comment or order will keep you on our regular mailing list.

Mithradates The Great B.C. 120-63

Few rulers have been more worthy of the epithet "great" than was Mithradates VI. At the age of eleven he succeeded his father as King of Pontus. Alarmed at the attempts made upon his life by his mother, he fled to the mountains and was for many years a hunter. In 111 B.C. he returned to Sinope, established himself on the throne and turned to conquest. He rapidly overran Galatia, Phrygia and Asia, defeated the Roman armies, and ordered a general massacre of the Romans in Asia.

Like most remarkable rulers he struck coins of much merit. The one illustrated above was struck in the year 75 B.C. It is supposed to have been copied from a silver statue mentioned by Pliny. The hair, blown back by the wind, indicates that the original may have been either an equestrian or that of a charioteer. It is the best portrait coin of that period and one of the most interesting of all times. We have in stock, several specimens in quite fine condition.

Spanish American Gold Coins

By WAYTE RAYMOND

The articles prepared by Mr. Raymond and published in the JOURNAL are now obtainable in book form. Many new illustrations have been added, showing, as far as is known, every type of Spanish American gold coins. The coinage tables from each mint are arranged in a manner that will permit easy and ready reference to the student. Mr. Howland Wood of the American Numismatic Society, has written in a very interesting manner, a general introduction to the work, and introductory chapters to each of the eight mints. Mr. Wood's histories of the mints are of special interest, as they tell not only the essential details but give a short compact historical sketch of each country and ruler. He has also included in the FOREWORD a table listing all the American mints under Spain, giving the different mint marks and the dates during which the mints were in operation.

Mr. Raymond has been interested in this series for nearly twenty years, and during the last five has spent much time and effort accumulating information for this book.

In size it is 6 by 9 inches. Bound in the finest library cloth and beautifully illustrated in half-tones.

THE HOBBY REPORTER

TOM MOORE, Publisher

Penacook, New Hampshire

RIGHT NOW THE OUTSTANDING MAGAZINE...THE STANDARD OF ACCEPTANCE FOR HOBBY AND MAILORDER ENTERPRISES

Vol. 1

March - April, 1946

A Hobby!

IT STARTS THIS WAY...

Enterprise is the spirit putting what the mind develops into action. Call it what you will...Hobby or Enterprise. If there were no Hobby there would be no Enterprise, and if there were no Enterprise there would be no Hobby, and we Americans have a Hobby of some kind.

Following Enterprise comes the pride of accomplishment which points directly to progress. Hence, an idea coming to you through The Hobby Reporter will enable you to cash in with profit in your pocket because The Hobby Reporter is an all family magazine and is followed by more eyes than any other hobby magazine.

Right now the American people are in a "show me" mood and you can gain worthwhile advantage by placing your advertisement in The Hobby Reporter which takes your sales message into the homes and work shops of Hobby minded men and women everywhere.

Maybe you have never used The Hobby Reporter, then you have missed a worthwhile deal for making money. That's our aim, to serve our advertisers and help them to make money.

You can hardly pass up your chance to evaluate your advertising dollar. Maybe you are overlooking how we blend Hobby and Mail-order news reporting with your sales messages and that is how we attract buyers with the spendable dollar.

The present market is ripe and don't overlook the thousands of newcomers who are bound to be interested in your advertisement in The Hobby Reporter. There is no question about it helping you to make a profit.

We have a definite program and we are geared for clear thinking for the advancement and good will of our advertisers and subscribers. We can help you more than you realize and will never know until you try.

ENJOY THE REWARD OF BEING RIGHT!

NUMISMATIC Dealers DIGEST

Published Weekly in the Interests of the Numismatic Dealer

Vol. 1 No. 9

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1947

$2.50 a Year, Foreign $5

personally yours

THE NUMISMATIC DEALERS DIGEST SURVEY

With this issue we begin our Numismatic SURVEY. You will find a postcard with this issue. Please fill in the information asked for and mail it as soon as it is possible. DO NOT sign your name. We do not want to know WHO has the coins. Every week, we will report the results and in a short while we hope to give to you a good idea of the number of the coins which are for sale, in dealers' stocks. PLEASE...Co-operate.....

The Convention Committee has released the price schedule for hotel rooms at the Hotel Statler, Buffalo, New York. Rooms for one person range from $3.30 to $6.60 per day. Double - from $5.50 to $8.80. Suites are $11.60 to $22.00.

We cannot impress you too much with the necessity of making early reservations. Last year we made our reservation early in March and had a beautiful room at the convention hotel. Many people we know waited and found that they were located at a hotel far removed from the convention headquarters and many had to double up. This year will be no exception.

for Immediate Reservations

Write to:
DR. J. M. WILD
690 ELLICOTT ST.
BUFFALO 3, N. Y.

As a Dealer, the importance of having a Case on the Bourse at the Convention is a matter of Good Business. It gives the collector and the dealer a chance to meet and get acquainted. The display of items from your stock creates interest and sales. Most dealers can vouch for the great amount of sales made at the Conventions and it gets better every year. As a Dealer, we had two cases at the Davenport Convention and were more than satisfied with the results. Look for us this year, also.

For reservations of the Bourse cases, write to:

MR. GEORGE A. CAGE,
690 ELLICOTT STREET
BUFFALO 3, NEW YORK

The price of each case is $15.00 and includes Police Protection day and night (but not insurance).

Introducing

EMILY
LONGFELLOW

Owner of
E.S. WALTON
COINS
7 Water Street
Boston, Mass.

It is unusual to find a woman who is the owner and manager of a full time coin business.

Mrs. Walton became interested in coins at the age of two, when her father gave her some coins. Since then her interest has never failed, although she has been collecting demi-tasse cups, also.

When she started the coin business she used her maiden name and for the past five years has conducted a mail order business specializing in U.S. Coins. She does not conduct auctions and finds very little time to collect coins.

As a graduate of the Fisher Business School she is well versed in business procedure and is really very efficient in the handling of the business. Her office is neat and impressive and she is there daily. Her husband, Ralph G. Longfellow, assists her in the business whenever he find time away from his own business. He is also a coin collector but does not decide the policies of E.S. Walton.

THE EMERGENCY MONEY COLLECTOR

WE BEG TO REPORT

The first issue has been sent to emergency money collectors the world over, and the verdict has been, "The Emergency Money Collector" is what we have needed for a long time." Boosted by the many fine tributes we have received (along with subscriptions and advertisements) we are going ahead with the second issue.

We find a number of things to comment on at this time, those of special importance being as follows:

More contributions are needed. Your Editor cannot write all of the copy although he has now began a series on World War II monies that will run through the next several issues. Send in those contributions NOW on any type of emergency money. They are sorely needed.

It has been necessary to raise the advertising rates. We regret this very much but the rates given in our first issue were merely introductory rates good only until May 1, 1948, and were offered as an incentive to get things started. The rates were considerably below actual printing costs for the space used so naturally they must be raised more in line with today's high printing costs. Even the prices given now are not profit making but as stated in our first issue, we are not out to make large profits on this venture—neither do we wish to lose money. So I am sure all will agree that having the ad rates practically the same as actual printing and paper costs is quite fair to all concerned. Even at the new prices, advertisers receive a good bargain because "The Emergency Money Collector" goes only to a specialized list of emergency money collectors, thus assuring you of more interest in your advertising copy on emergency monies. Send in your ad today and prove to yourself that this is true.

Three new departments have been added: The Question Box; I Want to Buy and Exchange Dept. The first serves the purpose of answering questions on emergency monies that readers may have while the other two offer adver-

RAINBOW HOBBY NEWS

PUBLISHED SIX ISSUES YEARLY

Miss Veteran
Friend of Disabled Veterans
Mary C. Squires

No. 2, 1952

12 Issues $1.00

(By Allyn H. Wright, Philatelic Press Correspondent)

Mayor Vincent Impellitteri of New York City has accepted the invitation tendered him, and will serve as Honorary Chairman of the 58th Annual Convention-Exhibition of The Society of Philatelic Americans, to be held Aug. 14th to 17th, at Hotel Astor in New York City.

This is according to a letter just received by Ignatz Reiner, Vice-President of the S.P.A., in which the Mayor states:

"It is a privilege to accept your cordial invitation to serve as Honorary Chairman for the 58th Annual Convention of The Society of Philatelic Americans, to be held Aug. 14th thru 17th, in our city."

In concluding his letter, The Mayor indicates a definite desire to actively participate in the opening session of the convention. Stephen G. Rich, of Verona, N. J., and a long time active officer and member of the Society, will be General Chairman of the convention and exhibition.

STAMP COLLECTING

As Occupational Therapy

LECTURE—2—

We start a stamp collection; (simplest tools: 1-5 ring binder, scrap or blank paper with 5 holes, gummed stamp hinges (available in 5 & 10 stores or Cammer's Book Store, stamp department.)

We take one page for each country e.g. "France" the patient starts lettering this name in his own way and ability as a headline.

He starts mounting all different stamps of France on this page. The small ones first, beginning with the smallest denomination. He folds one hinge, wets it and pastes  $\frac{1}{2}$  on the back of the stamp and half on the page. Later he does the same with the large sized stamp of this particular country.

To make the collection look nice he may draw a frame around each stamp. (Much later when he is more advanced, also dates and stories about the issue.) First it looks like this:

and soon with each country of which he possesses stamps, in case his relatives are in business he may ask them for stamps from their business correspondence.

Only perfect stamps, not damaged ones, should be mounted. Some collectors like to keep record of their stamps, so he may note in his notebook, how many diff. stamps he has from France, Greece, etc., it may give him a thrill to see his collection growing. Some like to collect particular countries only, or only annual, British colonies, commemoratives or pictures only. The trade offers all kind of packages for such particular fields.

Alvin James Fairbrook.

LOWELL THOMAS RECEIVES AWARD

After a number of false starts, we finally and officially were able to make Lowell Thomas, Mr. Treasure Hunter of 1952. At the last minute our president Bob Nesmith was called away for duty with the Federal Grand Jury, so the pleasant task of doing the honors, were done by Miss Marilyn McLarney, our youngest, not to say prettiest member. The presentation was made at the world famous Explorer's Club in New York and the photographers were there to snap pictures of this world shaking event, or so we would like to think it was—the first award of the Mr. Treasure Hunter scroll.

Mr. Thomas was also presented with the specimens from the Louis XVth Cache in Haiti and the Lost Ladder Mine in Colo. and with a genuine "cob" piece of eight, all described in our last issue. The affair ran off very smoothly, no doubt due to the careful planning of the personal staff of Mr. Thomas, Mr. Ben Talbot and his CBS staff and Mr. Moe Field and his assistant Miss Dibble. The only dampening effect was the rain and no one has been able to control that just yet, altho some may think that they can. We can now say again, "Long Live Mr. Treasure Hunter of 1952 and may you have a very successful reign."

On March 10th, Mr. Thomas announced the reception of the Mr. Treasure Hunter Award on his broadcast over WCBS.

Should any of you see any articles or photos in the papers on the award, will you please clip them and send them to the secretary with the name and date?

TREASURE TROVE CLUB

Just had a letter from B. C. Gaylord, after a lapse of a year. Have been wondering what had happened to him, but he had a good excuse, he has been flying the Korean Airlift all that time. He said it seemed like a dozen years, instead of just a dozen months, so what was the first thing he did after that strenuous year, why took his treasure hunting family on a treasure hunt out in the desert in So. Calif. Hope he had good luck.

Well, we must present another orchid or two to John J. Gillen again. He not only presented the club with a finely printed set of scrolls, that look almost like they were engraved, but then embossed Lowell Thomas on one in gold letters, making a swell job. Thanks again John.

Due to our increasingly numerous plans, it has become necessary for us to have other officers to represent us, in addition to the Permanent Secretary, so Robert I. Nesmith has been selected as President and Henry E. W. Wilson, M. J. Meadows and Jack O'Brien as Vice-Presidents. We wish them great success in their respective offices.

Hari - Kari

THIS ARTICLE MAY
CUT MY THROAT!!

For years I have promised and planned a monthly list for our mail customers. Many handicaps have always prevented it. The main drawback is time. Counter business is very time consuming, and my assistant is an insult to the customer. But we have found a cure-all I believe. In a nice young fellow and his wife who are going to make up and mail these lists to you each month. I have the stock, you want the stamps. I am always broke and need money - so it has been terrible that we have not been able to get together. Cliff is now prepared to give you prompt mail order service, so give us a try.

In this new mailing set-up, Jim Anderson (the mailer-outlet) wants to put the names of those who desire our list on plates. In that way he won't have to address five or six thousand envelopes each month. SO PLEASE return the enclosed information list for our files if you wish to keep getting our lists. We do not send out unsolicited approvals - but if you desire approvals we are ready to send you any type you want. (P.S. It's a secret, but we even give our mail customers an extra 10% discount on approval selections, and pay the postage both ways.)

NEW ISSUE: If your information card showed that you save foreign stamps you have received a sample copy of NEW ISSUE NEWS. This is one of the highest new issue lists published. But it has its faults. There are many Russia and their prisoner-countries listed. I feel that it is a dirty shame that we should give financial support for the Communist to spread the God-less reign of terror through these helpless nations. I would never be able to see my beauty in a set of stamps which if every time I looked at it I saw the misery and the suffering that my dollar paid for. Spend your money with those countries where liberty is still fighting for a chance to live. Your government is spending your tax money to halt Communism, why then should you donate to finance and spread Communism?

FLASH

White Ace has just issued the pages for U. S. Plate Number Blocks. Sec.1 1940-47, $3.75, Sec.2 1948 $1.35 (both for $5) Binder $2.95, blanks 20 for $1

While we are on New Issues, I know that everybody is wild about New Issues - but let's keep our feet on the ground. Remember all these new issues are not going to be Silver Wedding's. Use a little caution in your purchases. You are forgetting that your best buys are in your older sets. World conditions and money exchanges are all in a state of confusion. A new set is issued from the Country of "Old Dix" it has a face value of $4.55. It reaches the New York Wholesalers at $5.00. They sell it to the retailers at $5.50. And then you pay $6.00 on New Issues or from your favorite stamp dealer. Then in about 30 days some G.I. reaches New York with 100 sets that he got for candy bars or cigarettes. Cost to him was about $1.50 a set. He unloads them on the New York Wholesaler for $2.00 per set and shortly you see them advertised for $2.95. Now who are you going to blame? Yes, it is always the dealer. He hooked you.

I talk 'til I'm blue in the face, but some customers have just got to have them. I am afraid that they will, to their sorrow, learn who was right when they some day decide to sell.

There are such wonderful buys in quality merchandise, stamps of proven investment and beauty. Why waste your money on this trash? Now don't think that it is just the G.I.'s who bring these items back here at these less-than-face-values. Food package barbers, hungry for American dollar credit, and some officials have actually dumped on New York Wholesalers entire issues or remainders for as little as 10% of face. Many dealers get New Issues from the New York Wholesalers on a 30 day consignment. That way we can return those sets which we can't sell. It is a nice arrangement. The customers get to see the stamps before he buys, and we don't have to tie our money up before we sell. BUT, WE MUST MAKE RETURNS IN 30 DAYS. Why? Because many times issues drop so much in 30 days that the wholesaler can't afford to take them back. Oh Brother! If they drop that much in 30 days, what will they be down to in 60 or 90, or a year - or whenever you decide you have to sell.

IF YOU MUST BUY NEW ISSUES - Buy the cheap pretty sets that will always be popular. If they are pretty to you now they will be pretty and in demand by collectors for years to come.

I know you are only in this hobby for fun, but I want to see you have the most fun for the least cost.

I can remain in business only as long as you continue to enjoy your stamps. Therefore, I feel it my duty to warn you of bad buys, just as I'll tell you of good buys.

til next time - Good Collecting,

Norman Brock -

Katen Koin Kapers

The Coin House
Organ to end all such blarbs.
Vol. 1, No. 1.
June 1949

This Auction Sale, our 14th, ends a very successful season. Starting in August 1948, with the A.N.A. Sale in Boston, Mass., and ending with this sale in June 1949, we will have completed 7 separate sales, embodying 16 sessions selling a total of 11,020 lots.

This record, we believe is outstanding in the field of numismatics today. To use the words of Al Smith, 'LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD', and then consider letting us sell your coins.

ORCHIDS to James Kelly of Dayton, Ohio and Dave Bullowa of Philadelphia, Pa., for their clean and wholesome House Organs. No personalities or innuendos. Just coins and coin info. Keep up the good work.

THE MASONIC Collection we mentioned several months ago is now in our possession. The boys at the Customs were very cooperative but Uncle Sammy has his rules and regulations. Now that I have this collection, what am I going to do with it? There are over 900 different items, mostly the collection of Frederick the Great. A few of the pieces have as many as 2 diamonds and 2 rubies.

Several requests for additional information have been received and will be taken care of. The thought occurred to me that a great many coin collectors as well as masons would appreciate a reference book using this collection as a basis. This book would have to be illustrated as it is almost impossible to describe some of these beautiful items.

THE PRINTING of 1000 copies of such a book would probably run to $5.00 each on a non-profit basis. HOW MANY COIN COLLECTORS WOULD BUY THIS BOOK AT $5.00? Your reply will be appreciated and would not obligate you in any way. SIMPLY BROKERAGE. Several collectors have sent us material unsolicited with a request it be sold thru our bourse table at the San Francisco Convention. Perhaps there are other collectors who may wish to avail themselves of our services. Send us your worthwhile duplicates or a complete collection. You state the price you want. If we sell it, we simply deduct our commission of 10%, and send you a check for the balance. Material should reach us before August 1st, as we shall be away the entire month. Full insurance is carried.

WE TAKE A BOW and thank the New Haven Numismatic Society, Meriden Coin Club and Waterbury Numismatic Society for the nomination as a candidate for Board of Governors of the A.N.A. It is a high honor and carries with it serious obligations. Nevertheless we have decided to accept the nomination and hope for the support of my friends by their vote.

Personal data as submitted to gentl A.N.A. Secretary Lew Reagan follows: Member of the A.N.A. since 1949, now Life Member No. 132 and District Secretary for Connecticut since 1944, serving under three presidents. Also member of the following clubs and societies: Fellow Royal Numismatic Society, Amer. Num. Soc., Num. Soc. of South Australia, Central States, Boston; Hartford, Iowa; New England, New Haven, New York; Pacific Coast and Waterbury. Many philatelic clubs including Amer. Phila. Soc. and Amer. Stamp Dealers' Assn. Founder and Secretary of American Coin Dealers' Association.

SERVED as Chairman Dealers' Committee of National Coin Week in 1945, as well as on Ballot, Proxies and Resolutions Committees at various A.N.A. Conventions. Won individual First Prize in 1944 A.N.A. National Coin Week. P.S. Honest, fellers. I really couldn't have done all that without Frances.

WHILE ON THE DISTAFF subject, wonder how many of the fair sex are in professional numismatics 100%. Frances (the other Katen) has been a full partner for over a year. Arlene French, Adeline Beebe, Helen Williamson (deep down South), Ruth Green and possibly Margie Lortz are the other full-timers. How many more girls are 'in coins full time'. Please write our Statistical Dept. (The wife doesn't open the mail).

CLUB SECRETARIES. Please note, if requested on your official letterhead, we will gladly send you FREE a copy of Adams' Official Premium List of U. S. Private and Territorial Gold Coins for your club library. If it is possible within the by-laws of your club to send us a membership roster, it will help in revising and bringing up-to-date our mailing list. This however, is not a requisite in getting the free book.

MANY THANKS for your many nice letters praising the impetus given Canadian Coins through my Auction Sales. My love of foreign coins and particularly Canadian coins and tokens was responsible for the first auction sale of Canadian coins by dates, which is now a regular feature.

SEE YOU IN SAN FRANCISCO, but in the meantime write, won't you?

WE HOPE YOU LIKE US

IT'S been just about a year and a half since I last edited such a periodical. Since the same mailing list is being used, most of you will remember the Numismatic Gallery Monthly. Your letters indicated that you liked it—many offered to subscribe to it, and we enjoyed putting it out.

Unfortunately the pressure of other affairs prevented a regular release and it was with regret that it was discontinued in April, 1953. Now I hope to take up the regular periodic release of KOSOFF'S COIN BULLETIN.

You are invited to criticize, suggest, buy, sell, trade, or what have you. Interesting articles, news items, etc., pertaining to numismatics or numismatic personalities are welcome and will be published as space permits. We hope you like us.

Conventions & Banquets

The Inland Empire Coin Club

The annual banquet of the Inland Empire Coin club will be held in the Spokane hotel, Spokane, Washington, Saturday, January 21, 1956.

The new officers will be announced and will take office. An exhibit will be held and prizes awarded. The auction will be a two fold affair—one portion will be devoted to the late entries for the March of Dimes Auction and the second section will be the regular auction.

All coin club members, their guests, and interested collectors are welcome and urged to attend. The tickets are $2.50 per person. Tickets are available from Mrs. Arlene Dark, 1402 ON B Bldg., Spokane. The Stamp and Coin Collectors Supply, 805 Sherwood Bldg., Spokane and The Washington Street Drug, 23 South Washington Spokane.

Penn-Ohio Coin Clubs

The fall convention of the Penn-Ohio Coin clubs was held November 12 and 13th at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in Mansfield, Ohio. The convention was sponsored by the Mansfield Stamp and Coin club with Mr. Robert Campbell of Mansfield, as General Chairman.

The show, with the cooperation of a fine Indian-Summer weekend, turned out to be what was possibly the best of the long Penn-Ohio history, reflecting the constant upsurge of interest in numismatics. The registry was swelled with 219 names from all corners and beyond the usual Penn-Ohio area. Twenty-six nationally known dealers constituted the bourse and a $20,000 auction of 1,400 lots was conducted by French's, of Troy, New York. One hundred-two persons attended the Saturday evening banquet.

Judges of the exhibit competition New York and Thomas Morrison of were: Michael Kolman, Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. John Wild, of Buffalo

Butler, Pennsylvania.

Award winners were: Senior division, first award, Dr. Gaston DiBello, of Eggsterville, New York, with English five-guinea gold pieces from Charles II, including an extremely rare Edward VIII.

Second Award: Dr. Y. A. Sargis, of Cleveland, Ohio with large-size U. S. currency, including two cases bearing portraits of Ohioans.

Third Award: A. J. Croshier, of Cleveland, Ohio with freaks and errors in small-size U. S. currency.

Fourth award: Leo M. Thomas, of Ashland, Ohio with a type display of U. S. old and silver.

Honorable mention: Thomas Morrison, of Butler, Pennsylvania, with paper money and autographed currency.

Junior Division: First award: David Solomon, of Mansfield, Ohio with a large world map completely bordered with foreign coinage.

Second award, Erwin Meyers, of Mansfield, Ohio, with a well-displayed collection of presidential medals.

Honorable mention, Thomas Shenberg, of Ashland, Ohio, with sets of U. S. cents, nickels, dimes and quarters.

Current president of the Penn-Ohio Coin clubs is C. D. Clark of Akron, Ohio.

Canadian Coin Comments

Chester F. Moffet
Edmonton, Alberta, Canada

Should you find an aged coin that is caked with grime do not scour or polish it. Just soak in olive oil. Often when all foreign matter has been removed you may find yourself with an uncirculated and important coin. Many others have. It is really worth the patience and effort.

This column paid its last respects to the late Victor Horner, also a charter member of the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero club. Among Vic's mementoes must be a few "Short Shorter" bank notes autographed by some of the world's famous pilots.

During the last six years Canadian coins have come to the fore perhaps due in some measure to the publicity from this quarter in various US publications. American collectors and dealers have jumped on the band wagon. Canadian collectors with fair-sized collections have benefited while others were compelled to pay more for the coins they sought.

Check with C. Robert Taylor N. 1517 Foote Ave., Colorado Springs, Colorado, who is in charge of distribution of a horde of bronze and silver medals, which has brought to light when a bank building was razed Southwest Expedition or Pike medals were first issued in 1906. This column has put in for both medals—bronze and silver. Another withdrawal from the contingent fund.

Barry C. Wood, The Edmonton Journal newsboy at the corner of 102nd and 102nd, has been paid three 1925 Canadian nickels for papers. Two hundred thousand were minted. Must still be scores in circulation. Look you may have one in your pocket or wallet.

It is suggested abroad that the Bank of England authorize the issue of a two-pound note and a 5-pound note easily pocketed. Half-pound and 1 pound notes are no longer popular.

Canadian $4.00 bills must be very, very scarce, as they have not made the headlines lately.

Mint sets, Canadian, 1937 now catalogued at $37.50, 1948, now $13.75. British Coronation specimen proof set, cost $4.10, catalogued at $15.00. US proof sets should also be bought in the year of issue.

How did you fare from the emptying of piggy banks prior to Christmas? This Corner happened on many good coins.

Many thanks for a host of Christmas cards. One came from Berlin, Germany.

NOTHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO

Just before going to press we read the item printed in the center column. The San Francisco mint was being closed to save money and due to the lower demand for coins. There was nothing mentioned of the effects it would have in the field of Numismatics. We have very little to look forward to in the field of Numismatics. The Mint in regard to new coins, except what we are able to collect of the yearly regular issues of the three mints. Commemorative are taboo as far as the mint is concerned. We disagree with their policy but it would do no good to write letters to the Director, as that has been done and has had no favorable reaction on his part. Each year there are bills introduced in both houses of Congress, but they are turned down. How can we do anything about it? It is a problem. We are weak as far as presenting our side of the issue as to why there should be Commemorative issues.

The fields of both our hobbies are wide and varied. There are lots of "BIG BUSINESS." For all we can say as far as to how big we are is that there are twelve million stamp collectors and two million or more coin collectors. These figures are those that have been mentioned by some sources, however, no one knows how many collectors there are. We have no way of knowing how many tons of fine paper, paper board, coin folders, stamp albums, stamps used in many items, plastic holders, stamp mounts of plastic, and a long list of items too numerous to mention. How many people are employed in the industries, postoffice, postage and freight bills, TAXES and LICENSERS, rents.

How many millions of dollars that go to foreign countries for their stamps and coins which is an enormous amount. We need of one small country that sold enough stamps in the New York market to pay all operating costs for the previous year and had a surplus. We will never know until one day tomorrow we have an industry covering all phases and activities. Every large industry has such an institute and can give you the figures on any phase of their industry. These institutes have budgets which enable them to cope with matters such as this sudden order discontinuing the San Francisco mint. We can have the same thing if all the manufacturers of the products we use in the hobbies, Coin Clubs and Associations of Numismatists and Dealers, all joined in an institute covering the complete field, we would have an organization that would be able to get wind, we might deserve. We are not the first group that has been discontinued by this same problem. We can overcome this problem as other groups did. But it will take a combined effort of our Numismatic Manufacturers, Associations, Publications and individual collectors to wage the fight to get what we rightly deserve and need to continue this wonderful hobby of ours. Let's don't wage any individual effort at this time in writing to the director of the Mint or Treasury, or to our Congressmen. Let's let the leaders in the industries of our hobby and the American Numismatic Association handle these problems and when they decide what should be done we should get behind them 100%.

NEXT MAY I WILL BE SEVENTY

For one-half of that period I have been seriously engaged in the business of accumulating and selling coins and stamps to collectors. Besides a national mail order department I have for the last ten years maintained a street level Coin and Stamp Store here in Jacksonville.

It seems to me that RETIREMENT would make an awkward and well earned birthday present to myself at 70, and to that end I am hoping to dispose of my substantial and carefully selected stock of coins and stamps during the remaining ten months.

My desire is to sell in lots of not less than $100 and up to $1000 or more in single transaction. In fairness to all buyers, I feel that all lots of coins and stamps should contain a portion of the lower priced—but thoroughly saleable—items, plus a proportionate amount of scarce and hard-to-get material.

In coins, most minor U. S. in desirable circulated condition; some uncirculated, in uncirculated and rolls, the latter for the years of 1942 to 1950; and about 15 per cent of the value in foreign coins from 10 cents to $100 each.

In stamps, about 75 per cent in MINT U. S. singles, blocks, plate blocks, from 1918 Scott's #597 to date; the balance 18th and 19th century used U. S. Some mint and used foreign, plus a few covers, all good saleable material.

I would accept orders for $100 or more, and permit payment to be made over a ten month period, partial delivery to be made after the second payment. One payment to be forfeited if contract is not carried out, except for cause I consider satisfactory.

Any lot may be returned for FULL refund if purchaser is not entirely satisfied, transportation both ways to be paid by him.

The foregoing is not for BARGAIN hunters or "sharpshooters," but for serious buyers who are looking to the future, or who may wish to start a coin or stamp department, or transact a mail order business.

I have NO LISTS, and no scarce or hard-to-get items to sell SEPARATELY. My prices will average WHOLESALE or less.

Inquiries will be welcomed from interested collectors, and I will meet your ideas as nearly as possible within the limits outlined above.

THE SAN FRANCISCO MINT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The cost of making money is lower in Denver than in San Francisco, so the Treasury department announced today it is closing down its coinage operations at its San Francisco mint.

Treasury officials said they were shutting down their 160 year old money factory in San Francisco because modern production methods and an abundance of nearby silver and copper enabling the government to turn out money for "half the cost" in Denver.

"We can make the coins in Denver and deliver them to the federal reserve banks for what it costs to make them in San Francisco," a treasury official said.

"We have a modern mint in Denver. All its production is mechanized. Its production costs are quite low."

Shipping Costs Cut

The mint at San Francisco has shipped coins to only four of the 12 federal reserve banks, so that demand for coins from it has been light.

"We have recently changed our methods of shipping coins, too. We find we can ship the coins by armored car conveyors far cheaper than by the old methods. We used to use parcel post."

"Meanwhile, the demand for coins has recently fallen way off. Since in our production we are adding to a terrific pool, once demand for coins starts to decline, it goes off badly in a hurry."

"We were using 4,000 employees at the mint at the end of World War II to produce coins and were unable to keep up with the demand. Now we have only 800 employees. Some 64 people are losing their jobs in San Francisco."

Notes Change in Buying

The treasury official disseminated a suggestion that it take dollar proceeds to pay for purchases which used to take quarters and dimes, so that the demand has shifted to more paper money and fewer coins.

"We underwent a terrific change in our monetary habits back in the early 1930's when the chain store and the mail-and-carry market replaced the corner grocery," the treasury official said.

Circulation Compared

"Then we put our groceries on the bill and the old man paid it off on a Saturday night."

"The change stepped up the demand for currency tremendously. Since then we have added the sales tax, the excise tax, the vending machine, and the parking meter, all of which gobble coins. We still have to have proportionately as many coins as we do paper money."

The treasury said there was $22,556,633,926 in paper currency in circulation on Oct. 31, 1954, as compared with $15,757,722,571 on Jan. 31, 1952.

We Need A Mint In Dixie

Now that the Treasury Department has announced it will close the San Francisco Mint, due to high operating costs, etc., we believe it is time to consider the South in regard to a third mint due to the geographical location of the other two mints and for a further economy move. Further, as a government policy to have at least three mints for the procurement of vital materials and other items which are very necessary in case of war, fire or some unforeseen disaster which may destroy one of the other sources. Coins can be produced cheaper and can be shipped cheaper from a central southern point than from either of the two mints and with the terrific growth of the South and a continued larger demand for coins to take care of the increasing movement of industries to the South and the building of new communities and the influx of over 30,000 families per year that are moving to Florida alone, we believe that a mint in the South will not only be a profitable asset but a necessity.

Hints for Cleaning Coins

Silver or nickel coins that have been circulated can be cleaned with Baking Soda, the same powder used on porcelain sinks or bath tubs. It is generally said that uncleaned coins with some tarnish need not be or should not be cleaned. One gentleman high in numismatics stated that a little warm water and ivory soap would remove some tarnish from uncleaned coins. There are some new "quick dips" on the market that do a good job on finer coins without harming them. Baking soda is also another excellent used by many collectors in cleaning silver or nickel coins. Owners claim they get good results from sticking the coin in a raw potato. Some use silver polish, but in a circulated set this coin sticks out like a sore thumb, in comparison with the other coins in the folder. There is a "Miracle Cloth" on the market that we have used and does a good job on circulated coins. Regardless of how you clean, be sure they are thoroughly dried off with a soft cloth.

Did you know that some of the best bargains are found in the classified ads. Read them all.

1954, as compared with $15,757,722,571 on Jan. 31, 1952. The number of half-dollar, quarters, and dimes in circulation on those same dates totaled $1,191,474,739 on Oct. 31, 1954, against $1,689,497,729 on Jan. 31, 1952.

Over The Counter

A new year and a new paper. Not changed, just writing. Not that we like to see the years go by too quickly, but '54 was looking to write some about as far as general business was concerned and the stamp business was no exception, exciting, and as the stamp business is a hobby and something we can do without when money is short, it suffered along with other features. It did down our way since there may have been some areas that did ok, 1955 is looking much better and all indications and all the prognosticators of white to be in the business world predict a good year ahead. The Post Office department is getting off to a flying start with a stamp honoring the Time Arts, a 2c issue January 1955, at Philadelphia, Pa. The Land Grant College 3c issue, February 12th, at Lansing, Mich. The Rotary International 10c issue on February 23, at Chicago, Ill. The United Nations have announced a 3c and 6c issue, ICAD Commemorative set, February 26th. Address these covers for sending to The Postal Administrator, United Nations Building, New York, N. Y. No doubt the Rotary International will be used on mail going to foreign countries that take an 8c rate. We only had 6 commemorative last year and if they continue with the regular series that has been announced we should not expect over 8 commemorative issues this year. One thing you will not read in our columns is any condemnation of any United States Commemorative issues as we like them all, including the "CHICKEN" and the "UCV" which the big investors in mint sheets did not buy in quantity. We will tell you further something of the "UCV" issue.

Notice. Please do not write to us for coins or stamps as we do not mail order either of them. If there are some items you need and they are not advertised in our columns, send a self addressed envelope with return postage and we will give you the name of some dealer that might have the items you need.

Did you notice in the treasuries announcement that what you used to pay nickel dimes and quarters for what new coins you dollar. This sheet is only $1.50 per year, $1.50 per copy.

Once there was an absent minded traveling salesman. His route kept him away from home with the exception of two weeks each six months. After his first loss of 5-1/2 months he came home, and one evening he was sitting on the sofa with his wife when the door bell rang. He ran out the back door and jumped over the fence and fell and broke his arm.

EDITORIAL

Fellow Numismatists, the first edition of our coin publication went over with a bang! Eighteen coin collectors from the sunny shores of California, to the State of Massachusetts, subscribed before the first copy was printed. Within three days 190 interesting names were received for our paper. Dozens of encouraging letters were sent in wishing us luck, success, and many commendations on excellent printing, quality of paper, presentation of material and many other compliments too numerous to mention. One coin collector requested the first copy untold to place in his scrapbook.

We wish to take these few lines of the editorial to sincerely thank all coin collectors, who have contributed toward the promotion of our coin publication, to those who have subscribed, submitted names for the paper, advertisements, ideas, comments, news and etc., also to those who have sent letters, but have not as yet joined our subscribers roll call. ALL YOU COLLECTORS AND DEALERS WHO WISH TO SEE A GRAND NUMISMATIC NEWSPAPER SUCCEED ON THE EAST COAST, SEND IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS AND ADS NOW! As we stated in the first edition that this newspaper is printed in the interest of coin collectors. The paper will be printed for your needs, with your ideas and comments, so let's get together and support it NOW!

To keep the ball rolling, and to try to solve our everlasting battle of grading coins, send in what you consider the proper grading on all or any coin you desire to TSGt. John G. Spadone, Box 739, Wrightstown, N. J. When we receive enough letters on the grading system of the coins, we will take the average of what collectors from coast to coast consider properly graded, then we'll set up a standard system for all coins. This system should be used as a guide and will be a great aid to coin collectors in buying selling and trading fairly and satisfactorily.

In the next edition the newspaper should have it's proper name, and we are just as anxious to know what the name will be. So keep sending the names in, and pass the copies among friends. This will be your last chance to get your name in.

P.S.—All you coin collectors who belong to a Numismatic Club, please send in any news that would be of interest to other collectors. Thanks.

We hope to see your name in our publication soon.*

One of our subscribers has named our coin publication, and now we hope that the collectors and dealers will help us set up a standard grading system to be used as guide in selling, buying or trading coins satisfactory. So let's keep the ball rolling and let's send in what you consider proper grading on any coin. In the meantime, don't let your friends down, by keeping coins that are not properly graded. Send them back immediately. If the sender gets the coins back enough times, he will consider changing the grading of that coin, or he won't be able to sell it.

Collectors! This is your coin publication, send in your letter on what you would like to see printed.

The "FLYING EAGLET" it is!

We have received many letters suggesting that the common words, such as coins and numismatics, be omitted from the title of our new coin publication, which was a difficult task, since over 1,000 interesting names were submitted. This was a superb idea and thanks to Mr. John M. Vogl, 102 Church Road, Elkins Park, Pa., we have succeeded. The "FLYING EAGLET", which meets our scheme to leave out the words, coins and numismatics, and associates the title, with one of our most interesting coins, the "Flying Eagle", (our first small cent) and one of the finest coin publications in the numismatic field.

In our next edition we will meet our collector friend Mr. John M. Vogl, who will tell us a little about himself and how he happened to think of the name "FLYING EAGLET."

We sincerely wish to thank all of our friends, who have participated in this Name Contest. It's not possible to please everyone on the best title, although we hope that you agree that we have picked a suitable name for our coin publication.

The "FLYING EAGLET" will have a different meaning to each of you, that friends know, this publication is printed for the interest of the coin collector, and aid in trading, buying, and selling coins, fairly and satisfactorily.

All letters of comments, suggestions about the title or the paper in general are welcome.

Will be looking forward to hearing from you. So for now, see you next month.

"FREAK COINS"

New collectors of freak coins will find it more difficult to obtain late freak coins because the Federal Reserve Banks are now wrapping the coins instead of your favorite bank. With this change of procedure, less freak coins will get into circulation, since the Federal Reserve Banks find them first and return them to the mint. Therefore the late freak coins will become very scarce to the collectors and of course increase in value.

The only coins that will be overlooked by the Federal Reserve Bank are the off-metal, blank, and clip Planchets. The off-metal coins are scarce and will always sell at a good price. We can expect to find off metal coins, as long as the United States mints strike coins for foreign countries.

AN INTERESTING OLD PRICE LIST

Recently there came into my office a price list of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company, Limited. The old address was 12 East 23rd Street, New York City. The pamphlet advertised "Coins, Medals and Postage Stamps For Collections." It was dated April, 1890 and it stated that all previous lists were cancelled! After looking over the cheap sets of copper coins of the world, I turned to the United States listings. What an opportunity it would be if one could be transported back in front of Scott's store for an hour or so during April, 1890!

The U.S. offerings included:—

6 Colonial Cents, New Jersey, Conn., etc., 1785-88	$1.00
6 Half-cents	.50
20 Half-cents	2.00
5 Liberty cents prior to 1808	.45
40 Large cents, 1794-1857	1.50
5 Liberty-head quarters, prior to 1831	2.00
10 Hard Times Tokens	.60
8 Continental and Colonial Bills, before and during the revolution	1.00
Set of Confederate money, 50c to $100. (face $188.50)	.40

Compare the prices of today for similar offers! One can dream, can't one?

And today, as the coin collector looks over the stocks of the different dealers, there are just as many opportunities to pick up worthwhile material as above. Let's not overlook the 50c commemorative coins and the "S" mint markings.

THE GOVERNMENT'S GOLDEN SEARCH

By Laurence Cordell

Embroidered on the crying towels of eight unhappy American numismatists, giving them only somewhat meager comfort and consolation is the phrase: "Better to have had and lost, than never to have had," each collector having possessed a rare coin rarity and being disappointed of it through no fault of their own.

The scene and time of this unique occurrence dates back to the Philadelphia mint in 1863 where this producer of fine coins had just finished striking off nearly a half million of $20 gold pieces, the sight of which would pop the eyes of even the most unworldly hermit. Before these coins were put into circulation, Congress issued the Gold Reserve Act in March, 1834, demanding that all owners or hoarders of gold turn in their coins for paper and silver currency. Thus this shining pile of gold specie was kept from the public and melted down into bullion, that is all but nine coins. Enter on to the scene a shadowy character still at large, so mysterious that even the F. B. I. doesn't know him, and through some clever manipulation or ledgerman spirited away the now renowned double-eagles out of the best guarded vaults in the world.

Ten years rolled away, and to the astonishment of Secret Service operators, they discovered that a 1863 double eagle was being offered at a New York auction. Somewhat flabbergasted at this state of affairs, they swooped down on the owner of this rare item, seized it and questioned the collector. The numismatist stated he had purchased the coin seven years previous and paid in the neighborhood of $1300 for it from a dealer.

Warming up to their work, the Secret Service men eagerly followed hot and cold leads, and after a few months of expert sleuthing found six more of the $20 gold pieces in the hands of other collectors who had paid tidy sums ranging from $300 to $1000 apiece for them. Locating a Philadelphia dealer who had sold the eight double eagles, the government agents confronted a Memphis manufacturer with evidence that he possessed U. S. property illegally. At his refusal to give up such a treasure, the Justice Department brought suit against him, and won the case on the grounds that the gold eagle was never issued as money and still belonged to the Mint. The Secret Service still holds fond hopes of getting back the ninth coin, though their efforts to date are nil. Their only hope is that this clever smuggler has retired for life.

HAND MONEY

Delvers into the history of Numismatics come across strange and unusual items in their pursuit of knowledge, and none perhaps is more fascinatingly curious as that used by the ancient American Indian. Pieces of human bones such as small parts of the skull, thighs, and finger bones were employed as common barter by some tribes of the western plains.

The redskins of that period were not in the least squeamish about accepting a handful of fingers for the purchase of a basket of corn or something of similar value.

THE MIDAS TOUCH

About sixteen years ago the government transferred about two billions in gold bullion from the San Francisco to the Denver mint using mail bags exclusively for transporting this valuable metal. One out of every five bags were worn out at the end of the trip. The gold bricks, about the size of regular building bricks, with their heavy bulk of about thirty pounds each, had knife sharp corners that sliced deep holes in the heavy cloth.

After the job was completed, all the mail bags were burned by the treasury, and close to $50,000 worth of gold was recovered as it melted out of them. Articles of clothing coming in heavy rubbing contact with the soft gold potency retained enough of the precious stuff to buy each and every worker that handled it an expensive meal.

PUTTING THE DOUBLE O ON COIN CLIPPERS

Up until the sixteenth century the clipping of coins had become the major problem of most of the mints throughout Europe. Thus it was necessary for the moneyers to find an effective means to prevent this disastrous evil, and machinery was devised to combat it.

Leonardo da Vinci, versatile inventor as ever history produced, created a mechanical device that struck out perfect round planchets uniform in weight and size. France shortly later purchased a screw press from Germany, and employed the power of mill to run the machinery that produced the coins. These they named monnaie du moulin, or "mill money." As an added precaution against clipping, besides inscriptions in raised letters, were the introduction of the metal ring by which the blank was halted from spreading.

But despite this new advance in production of money, the old-fashioned minters of France threw their political weight against machinery, and obtained a royal edict banning for some time the coining by mill in the country.

The Crown & Taler

THE MEETING PLACE FOR COLLECTORS AND DEALERS OF FOREIGN COINS

VOLUME 1, No. 1

BRONX, NEW YORK

JANUARY 15, 1956

INTRODUCTION

I would like to take this opportunity to say "hello" and introduce you to THE CROWN AND TALER.

In deciding to publish THE CROWN AND TALER it was not my intention to place another paper on the market just to add to the quantity of the existing fine numismatic publications. In THE CROWN AND TALER, I believe I have a new and necessary product, a monthly publication to serve the needs of collectors and dealers of foreign coins for a common meeting place. Such a meeting place is now lacking. Letters from many collectors and dealers have borne out this belief.

As this is a new publication there are bound to be certain omissions and items left to be desired. In time, and with your aid, I hope to correct all defects. Any criticism and suggestions shall be appreciated.

Original plans called for THE CROWN AND TALER to be printed on newsprint, but just before publication it was decided to print the paper on coated stock in order to present fine, illustrated articles, which are so necessary for a publication of this type, and to issue a paper which you may keep for future reference without fear of early deterioration.

I hope you enjoy this first issue and the others that are to follow. May we continue to meet for many years to come through the pages of THE CROWN AND TALER.

HISTORICAL SIDELIGHTS COINS OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE

By James A. Brown

The history of the Roman Empire runs for 520 years from 29 B.C. to 481 A.D. It began with Augustus after whom the month of August is named and who succeeded Julius Caesar who was stabbed and ended with Leontius who was beheaded. Its history was mostly that of violence and it began and ended with homicide. Some Emperors were such cruel despots they were disposed of by the Praetorian Guard (which compares to the police force of the present day), and their coins, statues and public works were totally obliterated to destroy even the memory of their monstrosities.

The Empire gradually deteriorated due to the excesses of usurpers and Emperors alike until 491 A.D. when successive waves of conquerors and invaders, the Vandals, the Barbarians and others disintegrated, destroyed and looted Rome as it was known then. Later arose the Holy Roman Empire and with the popular appeal of Christianity came the Catholic word and the reign of the Popes.

It is interesting to note that without the coins left to posterity by the buried dead, and they did intern their coins in their graves in urns, we would have little knowledge of many of the rulers and phases of history of the Emperors of Rome. Even so there are two or three of whom no known coin portraits exist or haven't been found, although commemorative events are known of these rulers.

To the collector of Roman coins of the Empire, the deterioration of the coinage can easily be traced from the beginning to the end, for the coinage was debased in later years by succeeding Emperors. The artistic handwork also is not as evident in later years as at the beginning of the Empire and in many cases these early dates were really works of art and are beautifully executed as to contour and detail and depiction of mythological scenes. The workmanship was of the highest artistry and skill considering the ancient methods of engraving clay tablets and pressing them together on molten metal.

The buyer of higher priced Roman coins best keep a sharp eye out for spurious replicas of popular coins, for they are many, and some are obviously fake such as a bronze coin for which the only known kind is in gold.

Coin pieces of all the Emperors in any denomination is a wonderful history of Rome and is in itself an artistic group which will enhance any collection or gallery in a local display at a library, museum or public building.

SOUTH AFRICAN MINT REPORTS ON PROOF COIN SETS

Gold Sovereigns were struck from 1923 to 1932; Gold Half-sovereigns were struck from 1923 to 1928 (both these 22 carat gold coins had the "St. George and the Dragon" design on the reverse side). The ten-coin sets listed below, therefore comprised the Sovereign, Half-sovereign (both gold); the Half-crown, the Florin, the Shilling, the Sixpence, the Threepence (all five are silver); the Penny; the Half-penny, and the Farthing (all three are bronze). The eight coin sets lack the two gold pieces. In 1947 the Crown became a new South African denomination; therefore the nine coin sets are the eight aforementioned coins plus the new Crown. From 1953 in addition to the nine coin sets and the eleven coin sets (includes one and one-half pound gold coins), a two coin set consisting of the two gold coins was also issued.

1923—655 ten coin sets and 747 eight coin sets.

1924 and 1925—No sets issued.

1926—16 eight coin sets

1927, 1928, and 1929—No sets issued.

1930—14 eight coin sets

1931—62 eight coin sets

1932—12 eight coin sets

1933—20 eight coin sets

1934—24 eight coin sets

1935—20 eight coin sets

1936—40 eight coin sets

1937—118 eight coin sets

1938—44 eight coin sets

1939—30 eight coin sets

1940, 1941, 1942—No sets issued

1943—104 eight coin sets

1944—150 eight coin sets

1945—150 eight coin sets

1946—150 eight coin sets

1947—2,600 nine coin sets, and separately 3,000 proofcrowns

1948—1,120 nine crown sets

1949—800 nine coin sets

1950—500 nine coin sets

1951—2,000 nine coin sets

1952—12,000 eleven coin sets,

1,000 two coin sets and

3,500 nine coin sets

1953—3,000 eleven coin sets,

1,000 two coin sets, and

2,000 nine coin sets

1954—Approximately 1,500 eleven coin sets, 700 two coin sets, and

1,600 nine coin sets.

UNLIMITED

Vol. 1

AUGUST, 1957

No. 1

An Open Letter to all Numismatists

This is introducing COINS Unlimited, the brainchild of Bill and Chris Johns, and we hope the enjoyment and value you receive from it will be equal to the contentment we have had in bringing it to you.

Bill, of course, is the guiding light in this enterprise. He is 30, a printer by trade. I am 28, and when our three little ones aren't demanding attention, a numismatist. We are both, proudly, members of A. N. A. and charter members of GREATER HOUSTON COIN CLUB. In collecting, Bill's specialty is uncirculated Lincolns and nickels, while I have started my birth-year set. (Incidentally, have you noticed the price of the '28 Hawaiian Commemorative Half? I've just given up hope.) Bill is on the Board of Governors of our coin club and I am serving my second year as secretary-treasurer and having a big time.

We fondly hope we can work COINS Unlimited into the largest numismatic publication in the country. It will be a long, hard pull but it will be worth all our efforts. We both believe our advertising rates are not out of line.

Subscription solicitations have been going out since June. The first issue of 2000 copies will be sent to the people subscribing by mailing time and the balance will be mailed to numismatists over the U. S. and Canada. Naturally, we hope there will be very few sample copies left over next month !!

Feel free to send us little items of interest; we'll welcome them all and try to get them into print. Also, any of you that write, listen to this: If you'd like we can work out a deal with you—advertising space in trade for your articles. Coin club news is most welcome.

You know, it's kind of hard to write an open letter to people you've never seen, especially since my kin-people have to write to my mother to find out what's with us. It would be easier to sit down with each of you and tell you our plans for this publication and how much we will appreciate your help and co-operation, and especially your subscriptions and ads.

For those of you who do not want to take on the display ads, we recommend the classified section. The 4 heads, For Sale, Wanted to Buy, Trade and Stamp Collecting, should cut down on confusion and help all to find exactly the part that suits him best.

That's all for now. See you next month.

Chris

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE, AND YOUR ADVERTISING PAYS OFF WHEN YOU ADVERTISE IN COINS Unlimited.

AROUND THE WORLD IN COINS

The Lydians were credited with introducing or inventing the game of dice and also coined money. The oldest known coins are the electrum coins of the earlier Mermnads, stamped on one side with a lion's head or the figure of a king with bow and quiver; these were replaced by Croesus with a coinage of pure gold and silver. The electrum coins of Lydia were of two kinds, one weighing 168.4 grains for the inland trade, and another of 224 grains for the trade with Ionia. The standard was the silver mina of Carchemish which contained 8,656 grains. Originally derived from Babylonia, this standard was passed on to Asia Minor during the Hittite conquest, but was eventually superseded by the Phoenician mina of 11,225 grains.

According to Herodotus, the first mint was probably that established by Gyges in Lydia toward the end of the 8th century B. C. for the coining of gold, silver and electrum, an alloy of gold and silver. Silver was coined in the island of Aegina soon afterwards. The art of coining was introduced by the Greeks into Italy and other countries bordering on the Mediterranean and into Persia and India. Subsequently the Romans laid the foundations of modern minting. Coining originated independently in China at a later date than in the western world, and spread from China to Japan and Korea.

In Britain gold and silver were coined before the arrival of the Romans and after the Norman Conquest the number of mints increased to about 70, more than now exist in the world. The necessity for so many mints arose from the imperfect means of communication. The coins were occasionally tested at Westminster, and if any deficiency in their weight or fineness was found the "monnyers" or minters were punished as traitors. About 1180, officers were appointed to supervise the coinage on behalf of the king and to collect the seigniorage (Q.V.), which generally took the form of a deduction from the amount of bullion sent to the mint for coinage. The work was done by contractors at a great profit. Sir Isaac Newton was appointed master of the mint and contractor for the coinage in recognition of his services as a scientist.

In 1850 the contract system was abolished and since then the work has been conducted by civil servants, all profits becoming part of the revenue. The London mint was built in 1810, when the old mint in the Tower of London was closed after being in use for centuries.

Copper was originally added to gold in coins to reduce the cost of metal, but it has long been recognized that gold-copper and silver-copper last longer in circulation than pure metals owing to their greater hardness. Rate of wear, however, does not depend entirely on

All rates and costs must be furnished by the advertiser.

Not responsible for errors due to misreading copy.

Forms close Friday for next Friday's issue.

Contract Advertising

The NUMISMATIC ADVERTISER seeks contract advertising to commence with our fourth issue or any subsequent issue. We offer contracts for 12 insertions at a discount of 15 per cent from our regular rates, and contracts for 24 insertions at a discount of 20 per cent from our regular rates which appear elsewhere on this page. Contracts for 12 insertions may be for consecutive issues, every 2nd issue, or every 4th issue. Contracts for 24 insertions may be for consecutive issues or for every 2nd issue. On contract advertising specific positions in our paper—other than our front page—may be bought. This will be on a first come, first served basis with the provision that where requests for the same position are received in the same mail from two advertisers, preference will be given to an advertiser who bought space in our first three issues. Any size space may be contracted for.

COIN CLUBS

We will still endeavor to send free sample copies of the Numismatic Advertiser to all your members if you will send us your membership list.

First Subscriber Is Earl W. Batten, Salem, Virginia

Even as we go to press with our first issue, hundreds of subscriptions have poured in to Box 53. Ahead of all the others by a period of about one hour was the subscription of Mr. Earl W. Batten of Salem, Virginia.

For being the first subscriber, Mr. Batten has been awarded a lifetime subscription to the NUMISMATIC ADVERTISER. Mr. Batten, 44, is a civil engineer, and has been a coin collector for fifteen years. He heard of our proposed publication from his friend, Mr. L. E. Blackmon (a partner in the Ace Coin & Stamp Co. of Roanoke, Virginia), and promptly sent in his subscription.

Our thanks go to Mr. Batten and to all the other early subscribers. You've been so kind we wish we could give you ALL lifetime subscriptions, but our grocerymen keeps shaking his head and pointing to his overdue bill.

Classified Advertising

Originally we did not plan to run classified ads, but so many people have inquired about them that, beginning with our second issue, we will run classified ads on the following basis:

Minimum charge for one insertion is $1.00 for which 25 words are allowed. Additional words 4c each.

THE SAME COPY can be run for 12 consecutive weeks for $9.00 (plus 39c per word for all words over 25).

THE SAME COPY can be run for 24 consecutive weeks for $15.00 (plus 85c per word for all words over 25). Ads run at the above rates for 12 or 24 weeks cannot be changed.

There is not enough profit in a classified ad to cover cost of book-keeping, mailing statements, etc. so we must ask that payment accompany advertising copy on all classified ads without exception.

Thanks A Million!

To more than seventy (70) advertisers who sent us copy for our first issue!

To more than three hundred (300) collectors who subscribed—right unseen—to our paper before the first issue went to press!

To more than two hundred (200) collectors and dealers who wrote us notes of encouragement and advice.

To several dozen coin club secretaries who sent us membership lists.

To several thousand collectors who sent us requests for sample copies.

To the printers, the typists, and all the people who did the tedious and tiresome work of compiling 5,000 names and getting this first issue in the mail.

To all of these—and to you who are reading this first issue—we say thanks a million. You have confirmed our faith in the future of numismatics and our belief that there is no nicer group of people than coin collectors.

We are particularly happy that so many of you have commented on the need for a WEEKLY paper such as ours. With the rapidly changing coin prices, the advantage of a weekly paper is obvious. If you send us an advertisement on Friday the customer should be reading it on the following Friday.

One of the biggest problems we have had is on advertising. With a weekly paper there is not time to correspond concerning an ad so it is important that we be given specific instructions as to the amount of space, etc. when the ad is submitted. Also, please don't try to crowd in more copy than the space will accommodate.

Again, thanks a million! WATCH US GROW! But even better than that—HELP US GROW!

MT. PROSPECT, ILLINOIS

August 15, 1959

OUR CALLING CARD

As the nation's income increases and the demands on our time grow less, it is natural that some of this extra time and money is spent on recreation in the form of hobbies. Here we are concerned with only one, numismatics.

With the number of serious coin collectors growing by thousands, it follows that there must be sufficient media through which collectors and dealers may contact each other.

At this point we would like to introduce THE CENTINEL, the newest periodical for coin collectors.

We realize THE CENTINEL is not the first publication of its kind, and with the vastly increased interest in coin collecting, it most likely will not be the last. However, we do feel that THE CENTINEL has a number of advantages over the existing publications.

We have purposely made THE CENTINEL in booklet form. This we hope will facilitate ease of reading and allow the busy collector to carry it with him. With the collector in mind, we have made our classified rates as low as our costs permit [see inside]. We ENCOURAGE classified advertising, for this is the best way for one collector to contact others throughout the country; the end product being stimulated interest for all.

From the standpoint of our display advertisers there are also direct advantages. The smaller size of THE CENTINEL enables us to offer the prestige and increased advertising value of a full page ad at a cost far below that of other publications. You will note that THE CENTINEL is printed on paper of somewhat better quality than newsprint. The greater whiteness and opacity will assure you of an all around outstanding advertisement.

All of our advertisers will be interested to know that THE CENTINEL is not going to be content to build its circulation gradually on a pay as you go basis. Beginning with our first issue we are sparing no expense to solicit subscribers. We plan a very large coast to coast mailing in order to guarantee our advertisers of excellent coverage. This introduction alone is being read by approximately 5000. THE CENTINEL will be published semi-monthly; the first edition going forward September 1st. The size will be entirely up to you.

We aspire to make THE CENTINEL the best in its field, but we must have your help. Your comments, criticisms, and recommendations will be greatly appreciated.

Classified Advertising

We have noticed a trend in other publications to make the rates governing classified ads so involved that it takes a mathematician to determine what such advertising actually costs. We have tried to state our rates as simply as possible. There are no minimum charges, and our terms apply to every issue. As an added service we charge our subscribers only for the ad itself; the name and address are printed at no charge.

If you are an active collector who enjoys advertising frequently, we think you will find THE CENTINEL more economical than any other publication.

Coin Clubs

ALL COIN CLUBS ARE INVITED TO SEND US A
MEMBERSHIP LIST SO THAT WE MAY FURNISH
EACH MEMBER WITH A
FREE SAMPLE COPY OF
THE CENTINEL.

Don't Be Confused

The publication you are now reading was previously called The Centinel. Henceforth we will be known as THE CENTRY. This does not indicate any change in ownership, policy, or purpose; only the name has been changed.

We have been advised that the Central States Numismatic Society has, for several years, published a periodical under the name "Sentinel". In deference to the CSNS, and in order to maintain good will throughout the numismatic fraternity, we felt this action was necessary and appropriate. We trust our readers will concur in our judgement.

Subscriptions & Classified Ads

We have noticed that several of our classified advertisers have not yet subscribed to THE CENTRY. For the benefit of these and future advertisers, we would like to point out that subscribers' names and addresses are printed free. Therefore, a subscriber need advertise only every six weeks to realize a savings approximately equal to the price of a years subscription.

Good Reports

Many of our classified and display advertisers have reported excellent response to their ads. Space does not permit the publishing of all these letters, but we want to thank all who wrote for taking time to do so.

New Features

You will notice that none of our new columns appear in this edition. This is simply because we received no material. As we explained, the material for these columns must come from our readers. We hope everyone will take part in the next issue.

See You At Beloit

Don't forget the annual convention of the Beloit, Wisconsin Coin Club to be held on October 11th in the Student Union Building on the Beloit College campus. We'll be looking for you.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

In order to obtain new subscribers we have conceived a plan whereby you can do us a favor and also earn yourself a substantial commission.

When a new subscriber sends in your name along with his subscription, you will be paid a 30% cash commission or a 50% commission payable in advertising during the following month. You will be given a tally of your account on the 15th of each month. All you have to do is tell us how you want to be paid.

Did You Know

The famous Flying Eagle on our first small cent first appeared on the reverse of the Gobrecht dollar.

Let's Get Acquainted . . .

As you will undoubtedly realize, this is a new publication on the coin scene. The idea for this publication has lain dormant in the mind of your editor for many years. We are young and hopeful. We feel there is plenty of room in the numismatic fraternity for another publication which will benefit the entire "family" of collectors.

We seek, in no way, to compete with other publications in the field. We do, however, feel there is enough news and need for a beginner. We will strive to give you the sort of publication you deserve, the kind which you can consider as your very own.

There is so very much we have to learn. There are many obstacles in the path to be overcome. But, the help and advice which you have and can give to us, will allow us to publish a complete, sensible and informative medium. We expect mistakes to occur but they will be unintentionable and correctible.

We intend to publish a maximum of news and information.

We will be happy to publish any coin news, club news, personal information (along with pictures of the informant) wherever and whenever space will permit. We will run columns of interesting items, publish letters from subscribers (whether good or bad) and try in every way to give you a publication in which you can have active participation.

This publication was conceived by your editor and Mechanical manager. We are Charles Moody, Jr., and Chester Riebe. We are both employed by the local newspaper as journeymen printers. I, Charles Moody, Jr., have been in printing for 14 years, having worked in both newspapers and job shops throughout the country. I began collecting coins some nine years ago, became a self-styled dealer and finally felt I could better serve by passing on what little I have learned in both fields. Mr. Chester Riebe has been in printing for 17 years, having worked in both kinds of

GOLD COINS

By MALVERN E. TIDWELL
A.N.A. 14880
Waco, Texas

Despite the legal status of gold coins, and despite the circular issued by the Federal Reserve Banks calling attention to the fact that all United States Gold coins (except the 1933 twenty dollar pieces) are considered collectors items, and should be offered on the numismatic market rather than sent to the melt, several thousand dollars worth of U. S. gold coins are annually melted down. Melted down during the fiscal year 1959 at U. S. mints totaled a fraction under 604 ounces—largely at San Francisco.

In that the United States and the free nations set-up has pegged gold at thirty-five dollars an ounce, Uncle Sam stands to benefit fifteen dollars per ounce as he outstanding gold coins is melted down and placed in "gold storage."

P. S.—I filed the key out of the last issue of the Dixie Coin News. Move over to your Mr. Mullis. You are doing a good job in your part of the country.

A.N.A. Growth Is Phenomenal Rise

Membership in the American Numismatic Assn. is growing by leaps and bounds—General Secretary Lewis M. Reagan received half a hundred applications at the Boston convention alone.

Figures for the net membership gain presented in Reagan's convention report speak for themselves:

1952-54, 995—gain, 11.7 per cent.
1954-55, 1943—gain, 11.2 per cent.
1955-56, 1303—gain, 11.4 per cent.
1956-57, 1688—gain, 14.4 per cent.
1957-58, 1850—gain, 12.3 per cent.
1958-59, 1945—gain, 10.8 per cent.
1959-60, 2000—gain, 17.9 per cent.

TEXAN HITS AT BIG ROLL CRAZE

"We must continue to make a study of the coins that we collect, and be students of them and not be content to lend our interest solely to the 'roll craze'" said Dr. T. H. Butler, Temple, Texas, as he spoke to members of the Waco Service Center.

Dr. Butler spoke on the subject "An Unusual Look at United States Coins."

Atlanta Has Large Group At Boston Meet

True Southern hospitality — the kind that will be in store for A.N.A. members next year — was in evidence everywhere at the 69th annual convention in Boston.

A delegation of 14 Atlanta Coin Club members — the host organization for the 1961 convention — was present in Boston, headed by George Mill Todd, its president, to study convention details to insure a smooth - running, top - flight meeting.

The Georgia collectors have already started preliminary plans set the hotel, the Atlanta Biltmore, and have their pre-convention machinery already in motion.

Novel and colorful giant Georgia peach posters were in evidence at the Boston Statler-Hilton. As a promise of things to come, sugary confections in the form of freesty posters were distributed by the 1961 hosts.

THE COLONIAL NEWSLETTER

APRIL, 1961

No. 2

On the advice of our supporters we have established subscriptions for this pamphlet. The present rate is $5 per year, but will be reduced when possible. Those who contribute articles will receive the newsletter free and we hope to figure out some way to make an adjustment to those who have generously contributed both money and articles in the past.

Due to the relative costs and potential increase in circulation, the plates now used will be photo engraved. I hope the quality will be acceptable.

We are continually in need of articles and write-ups. Your comments are always welcome.

A. D. Hoch, Editor

LETTERS

I see that I have mislabeled one of the pictures on the plate in the January issue of The Colonial Newsletter. The upper left coin captioned "Ryder No. 12(M)" should be "Ryder No. 12(O)". While 12-M is a known variety, the 12(O) designation is more accurate here since this photograph shows the obverse found with the Reverse "O" pictured below it.

W. P. Keller

NEW LISTING OF CONNECTICUT COPPERS NOW AVAILABLE

It was good to read in the last "Newsletter" that memorandum from Richard Picker pointing out five different die combinations that were omitted from "State Coinage of Connecticut", as well as another variety that was erroneously described by H. C. Miller. Examples of all these varieties may be seen at ANS, except 33(21)-EE of 1787. The latter, together with 33(21)-k(4), were originally described in J. M. Richardson's article, "Varieties of Connecticut Cents", which was published in "Numismatic Review", Vol. 3 (1946), P. 5. Unfortunately the illustrations of these two combinations on Plate I were transposed, so half-tone No. 2 should be No. 3 and vice versa.

Since 1920 there have been many more changes to Miller than Picker's memo indicated. Other new combinations have been discovered in the intervening years, and several more have been disapproved, as for example the unique 8-0(1) of 1786. It now appears that this obv. 8 with its curious legend, UCTORI: CONNNEC:, is simply a double striking of obv. 5(4). The unique discovery specimen of obv. 8 was illustrated on the Miller plate, but the present whereabouts of the coin is unknown. In spite of published information, the current edition of "Guidebook of United States Coins" has added Miller's same half-tone to Yeoman's well known catalogue, and priced the only example of this doublestrike at $8.00 in Good, and $19.00 in Fine condition!

In the forty years that have elapsed since Miller, it is quite significant to note that there are only two dies which remain unedited. The one is rev. Z(25) of 1787 which we hope will be described and illustrated in the next issue of "Newsletter". The other is rev. C of 1786, which is known from only a single combination, 4(1)-C. Concerning it, Miller wrote, "Mr. Crosby gives this combination, but no specimen of it has been located." Fortunately, W. H. Breen has verified the existence of this variety and made pencil rubbings of it, but its present location is likewise unrecorded. His original manuscript description of unpublished rev. C of 1786 is as follows:

"Branch is distinctive, all upper leaves disconnected, others practically so. Note fold of drapery over shield. Some parallels of latitude extend down to the denticles. Letter B touches the shield; colon and date very close."

The writer has recently finished a revised list of all known varieties of Connecticut coppers in an attempt to incorporate those various and sundry discoveries that have accumulated in the series since Miller. In this new listing are included the pieces muled by two Connecticut re-

COMPLETE MARKET REPORTS

The Adult Hobby

TIMES BRINGS NEW FORMAT TO MOST FINANCIALLY SOUND HOBBY

The Market Section...

At the Outset...

The greatest moving factors today in the coin market consist of rumors, tips and whims, without a statistical back-up of any sort.

This is a lamentable situation which the TIMES hopes to do away with through consistent and accurate market reporting.

The TIMES market section will be bringing scientifically accumulated and analyzed data—trends and trend projections along with up-to-the-minute reporting of market transactions and prices paid at the time of publication—so that the investor can determine for himself the right moves to make.

Using data supplied by the TIMES, there should be no reason for anyone buying.

Coin collecting is by far the most financially sound hobby known today. The world of coin collectors is not only protected by the original face value guarantee behind each and every collection, but by a growing mass demand for coins served by an international network of dealers and publications. Not until the coming of the TIMES has the coin market (see market section) been so accurately analyzed.

Pilot Issues Light the Way

TIMES Staff Report

A selected list of collectors and dealers received TIMES pilot issues as a final step before publication for nationwide circulation. From the more than expected response, our staff was able to shape the TIMES to the specific needs of the numismatic field.

Changes and additions were made with each succeeding pilot issue in response to comments from some of the foremost authorities in the coin collectors' field.

Now with confidence, we of the TIMES staff believe we are offering the only publication that is rounded-out to best cover all the needs of all branches of the numismatic field.

Predominantly, everyone who received pilot issues was of the opinion that the TIMES would be the one newspaper that would give them a true picture of the current values of their coins.

With the conclusive results of the pilot issue ventures at hand, the first edition of Numismatic Times and Trends has been put to press.

Collector Knows

The TIMES market section will help every collector to be sharper in his buying. His purchasing dollar will go farther. He will be more in a position to enjoy serious pursuit of his collecting.

With the assistance of carefully compiled charts and price listings offered in the TIMES, market section, the collector will know which coins are truly promising investments, which coins are earmarked for speculation and which coins are slow movers.

The Adult Hobby

Other hobbyists, be they collectors of stamps, buttons of rare design, match-book covers or antiques, miss out on the protection of face value. But the coin collector can rightfully consider himself an investor.

A collector, who each year puts away an uncirculated roll of each denomination and mint, pays only face value in the year of mintage. The passing of each year after adds value over and above his guaranteed face value.

Regardless of the market outlook, the coin collector is

Judd Confirms Pattern 'Find'

In a letter to the TIMES, Dr. J. Hewitt Judd, the renowned pattern authority and author of United States Patterns, Experimental and Trial Pieces, stated that the 1871 piece in question will definitely be included in his next edition of the exhaustive work on patterns.

Dr. Judd's letter read as follows:

Dear Mr. Pierce:

The piece which Mr. Ross has is one that I did not have listed. The 1871 series were not differentiated as to 13 and 22 stars until we began to study them. We will list this piece in our new edition.

Dr. Judd states further:

Now that attention has

New Pattern Discovered!

Breen-Judd-Schuman Confirm Find

New York City (Special to the TIMES)—Recently purchased at an auction, the illustrated pattern was catalogued as an AW 1123 (Judd 1145) Longacre design. Examination showed that the above pattern was not catalogued at all, in that 13 rather than 22 stars appear in the flag field on the obverse. Details on page 10

MOTTO

Not On All Currency

It will probably be another eight years before the motto "In God We Trust" appears on all our currency. Henry J. Holtzclaw, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, advised reporters that the delay is a matter of saving jobs for the pressmen who print the bills.

Holtzclaw gave the explanation to reporters after President Kennedy had received a letter from John H. Shenkel of Pittsburgh, asking why the motto hasn't been imprinted on all currency as required by law. Mr. Holtzclaw also stated that the motto appears only on about fifty per cent of the nation's one dollar bills.

The law prescribing the motto, contains a provision that it will be printed on currency only as fast as conversion is made by the bureau to new high speed presses which require special dies and plates. The conversion to the new presses will be continued over a period of about eight years to avoid laying off pressmen.

Mr. Holtzclaw said the new presses increase the output of each pressman by 370 per cent, and if the entire printing operation of the bureau were converted to high-speed presses at once, nearly 1,000 employees would be out of jobs.

The Roosevelt Dime

The dime, or ten cent piece, was authorized by the Act of April 2, 1792. It contains 34.722 grains of silver and 3.858 grains of copper, giving it a total weight of 38.58 grains, and it is thusly our lightest and smallest diameter coin being minted.

The Roosevelt dime was designed by John R. Sinnock and the initials JS are located below the neck and just to the left of the date. At the time the coins were first minted, the rumor that the initials stood for Joseph Stalin, was widespread. Because of the repeated explanation that the initials were those of the designer, John Sinnock is likely the most widely known of the designers of our currently minted coins.

The obverse of the coin bears a portrait

Editorial

The other day, while reading a question and answer column in a nationally circulated magazine, I noticed a question written by a person who stated he had just started collecting coins and wanted to know where to write to obtain new coins from the government.

The magazine, one which is of the current event type, advised the writer -- "Proof sets of 1961 coins are available from the Superintendent, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia 30, Pa. A set -- half dollar, quarter, dime, nickel and cent -- costs $2.10. When ordering the coins, send a cashier's check, certified personal check or a U. S. postal money order. After the mints supply is exhausted, sets may be obtained from coin dealers."

While the service is commendable, it is not complete and it makes an implication, obviously unintended, that the mint's supply must be exhausted before proofs may be obtained from dealers. It does not advise that mint sets may also be purchased by contacting the Treasurer of the United States, Cash Division, or that the same coins may be obtained earlier, if desired, from most dealers.

Obviously there are thousands who are potential new collectors, and need only some information and a little impetus. From what source are these things to come? Surely anyone engaged in the pursuit of numismatics can make some contribution, and not only create interest in those not engaged in the hobby, but also provide full and accurate information for the questions of beginners.

Many of our smaller towns do not have coin clubs, but if each collector will talk about his hobby, to individuals and to groups, much interest can be developed. Where coin clubs do exist, why not advertise such by having posters made and placed in locations where they are bound to catch the public's eye. Banks should be an excellent spot for locating the posters, and undoubtedly most, if not all, of them would be glad to co-operate. Surely many new collectors would be enlisted, and the enrollment of the clubs would increase accordingly.

The METROPOLITAN NUMISMATIC JOURNAL

EDITED BY WALTER BREEN

The Metropolitan Numismatic Journal, copyright 1961 by Metropolitan Coin Company, is published bi-monthly by Metropolitan Coin Company, 3012 Joshua Road, Lafayette Hill, Pa. Subscription: $3 per year, 50¢ per copy. Subscription address: 3012 Joshua Road, Lafayette Hill, Pa. Editorial address: Walter Breen, 1205 Peralta Ave., Berkeley 6, Calif.

A NEW SERVICE TO ADVANCED COLLECTORS

You now hold in your hands the first issue of a new publication explicitly intended for you, the advanced collector. By this phrase we mean any collector who (within the general field of Americana) is beyond the roll, bag, proof set and/or commemorative stage; who is mature enough in attitude and orientation to read other things in coin publications besides advertisements; whose interest in coins, in short, goes beyond the How Much Is It Worth stagnation. Not so specialized as Colonial Newsletter, nor so foreign-and-ancient-oriented as most ANS publications, nor yet so inveterately commercial as the coin newspapers, Metropolitan Numismatic Journal welcomes articles and notes on any phase of American numismatics. Material by Dr. George Fuld and other eminent authorities is already lined up. We also not only welcome but request letters of comment; any of general interest will be printed. Send along your unanswered questions and problem coins; subsequent issues will contain a regular column of replies and identifications. (We cannot do free appraisals, however; and if you do send coins, please include postage and registry fees for their return.) We hope MNJ will please you.

National Organization Founded for Young Collectors

YOUNG NUMISMATISTS OF AMERICA FOUNDED

A new organization for numismatists under the age of 21 has been founded by Roger Rudman of Flushing, New York.

ROGER RUDMAN
President, Y. N. A.

Until now there has been no way these "junior" numismatists could trade with each other. Young Numismatists of America will help to alleviate these problems.

The annual dues in Young Numismatists of America are $5.00, this covers all benefits. Collectors who join now are given a special bonus — memberships will not have to be renewed until December 31, 1962, thus giving an extra two months.

Once a year a complete membership list will be published and sent to all members. The list will include every member's name, address and membership number. In addition, each member's specific collecting interest will be listed. Membership cards are sent to all applicants accepted into the organization.

Benefit available to Y.N.A. members are many. COIN TRADE ADVERTISER will accept advertising from members only at the rate of three cents per word, no minimum charge. (Complete details available from Y.N.A. headquarters).

A medal company has agreed to give special discounts to members.

Eventually a library is to be established; members will be permitted to borrow numismatic references without charge. A newspaper is planned in which members will be allowed a certain amount of free advertising.

Young Numismatists of America was registered as a small business in the state of New York on September 19, 1961.

Organized for young collectors by a young collector, Y.N.A. is the organization that will help young numismatists throughout the world gain recognition.

Interested minors should write for free application blanks at the following address:

MONEY FACTS

Last week I discussed with you the popularity of the Lincoln Cent, and these words in this series that in my opinion will raise its premium by 1964.

This week I will stay in the same line of thought, and discuss with you a coin that doesn't seem to enjoy the high interest of the Lincoln Cent.

Although not completely ignored by collectors, the Buffalo Nickel has been overshadowed by other coins, and seems overlooked. The urge to acquire a Buffalo Nickel collection is not as great among collectors as the Lincoln Cent or Indian Cent.

Why is this? It's true that the earliest Buffalos dated from 1913 to 1928 are hard to find with good clear dates. This is not true all the time; I have found keys and semi-keys in change, and have satisfied my curiosity by looking through a few rolls, and have been lucky, finding a 1917S, 18S, 19S and 26S in good condition, plus later dates and mints that will prove rewarding in the years ahead.

Of the 62 issues of the Buffalo Nickel, from all mints, 40 of these issues were under 15 million. Compare this to the demand for the Indian Cent, of which there were 84 issues, 8 less than the Buffalo Nickel, and only 18 issues under 15 million!

I do not predict the Buffalo Nickel will be in such great demand by 1964 that the premium now asked for a 1927D will double, it will cost you $1.00 in 1964, but ten years from now the so-called "common" Buffalo Nickels will be harder to find and costlier to buy.

Produced coins for "common" Buffalo Nickels by 1970. Coins in good condition, some in better condition will command a higher premium.

DATE	1961	1970
1927D	30¢	1.75
1927S	35¢	1.25
1928D	25¢	1.00
1928S	20¢	1.00
1929D	20¢	1.00
1929S	15¢	1.35
1934D	30¢	1.00
1935S	30¢	.75
1935D	25¢	.75
1936S	30¢	1.00
1937S	40¢	1.00
1938D	30¢	1.00

I do not make that this increase should be used as an investment guide, and that you should not buy any of the coins I have mentioned, I make this observation in hopes that more collectors will "choose the Buffalo", and give this coin the honor it deserves, the honor of being placed in a numismatist's cabinet.

The Buffalo Nickel has served the people well for 48 years, and should be given this honor.

MY NICKELS WORTH

by M. Brooks

Trading has become to coin collectors what the clubhouse has to golfers.

The golfer uses the clubhouse to meet his friends and discuss his game. The coin collector trades coins for the same reason, to meet his friends, and try to improve his collection.

There the comparison between collector and golfer ends, golfing to most of us is a local thing, done close to home (unless you're a pro); trading coins is done on a nationwide scale. Collectors in California trade with collectors in Pennsylvania; those in Michigan make trades with collectors in Florida. All this is done by mail, and many transactions are made, even when the parties involved are hundreds of miles apart.

That is the thought behind the idea of this past issue, COIN TRADE ADVERTISER, through our pages we hope that more

The David Laties Newsletter

You are now reading the first issue of The David Laties Newsletter. Our intention is to come out every month, in spite of the difficulties besetting everyone who tries to be punctual. We plan to publish at least one serious article in each issue, devoted to some aspect of the English coinage. This month we have a short piece by Mr. Walter McIntyre which explores some aspects of English pennies. Next month will feature a fine article by Walter Breen, who is well known for his scholarly numismatic research.

You will also find, every month, an unusually varied offering of English coins. Our customers are a very diverse group of people from all 50 states except Hawaii, of all occupations including that of coin dealer, and of many different collecting preferences. We have managed to satisfy almost all of them, which gives us great pride.

Up to November, only about six customers had ever returned coins they had ordered, out of the thousands of packages we sent during the year. This was an excellent record, since many dealers whose business is transacted mostly by mail have to put up with a return rate of 20% or higher. A few weeks ago five packages were returned in one day, all containing 1953 mint sets whose original plastic holders had broken open in transit. The postmarks indicated that they had all been mailed the same day, about two weeks before. We were extremely perplexed until we realized that a cold spell had descended upon Ottaville that very day. Some experimentation, involving the use of the refrigerator, convinced us -- the extreme cold had made the plastic holders very brittle, and when they were even slightly jarred they shattered like glass. We sought a new system of packaging and ended up buying two cartons of foam rubber, which we used to stuff the mailing boxes before inserting the mint sets. The object was to prevent the sets from moving inside the boxes and also to cushion them against rough handling by the Post Office. So far, this method seems to be successful.

Incidentally, why do collectors prefer mint-sealed coronation sets? I suppose this controversy, as in the case of U. S. proof sets, will never be resolved to anyone's satisfaction, since some collectors seem to feel better if their coins have never been touched by human hands, because this makes sure that the coins

BEST BUYS OF THE MONTH

By Leo M. Thomas

A.N.A. 11725

"From little acorns great oaks grow." 25 years ago our hobby was small in the number of collectors, and it was considered for those who were interested in putting together a complete collection of one or more denominations. Then, each collector was able to have many different series in which he was interested. Most of the older collectors had different sets of coins at the same time—several pieces of gold, several tokens, different paper money, along with a few favorite medals. There was a satisfaction of not only having a fine collection, but he also had the knowledge that some day it would increase in value and he could use it later as security—which many did.

Now it has grown into one of the leading hobbies of today, and into a big going business for many. I have previously explained how many items have increased in value many times, and many will continue into the years to come.

Many have questioned the investment angle, as the populace is fully aware of the keen interest. Within the last month I have received a very favorable report from one of our best authorities on investments. Buy with discretion and knowledge for a long range objective.

We try to list what we consider the items that are best for your coin portfolio and if you wish to break it down in the different categories. It may keep you alert and to know if we have been correct. Learn to think for yourself—most men find it easier to follow the advice and ideas of others, rather than to think for themselves. In other

The New Dollar Bill

Take a good look at the $1 bill in your pocket. It may be hard to find one like it in a few years. Congress started a drive to give the government authority to put a new type $1 bill into circulation. The reason? To avert the danger that the Treasury will exhaust its supply of silver for coinage by 1965.

These $1 bills now in circulation are called silver certificates and backed 100% by silver. The new ones would be backed with a 25% gold reserve, and called "federal reserve notes".

When the pending legislation is enacted, the $1 bill will undergo its first big change in appearance since it was reduced to the present size in 1929.

Design of the new bills will be changed to distinguish them from the old, and although work has not started on a new design, the size and color will probably be the same.

The House Banking Committee approved the legislation that will clear the way for these changes by an 18 to 1 vote.

The 1.3 billion ounces of silver the treasury now has can not be touched because it must be held as backing for the $2 billion worth of $1 bills now in circulation.

Retiring of these $1 "silver certificates" from circulation in favor of the "Gold Backed" $1 notes will "free" the Treasury-owned silver for current coinage purposes—thus alleviating the "Silver Market" situation.

"Cointact" has access to a large supply (bundles as packaged by Bureau of Engraving have been presented to us for purchase at our Bank in Washington, D.C.) of the New "Granahan and Dillon Silver Dollar Certificates", crisp, uncirculated and consecutively numbered and we will have the same ease of acquiring the New "Gold Backed Dollar Bill".

We, at "Cointact", have a plan, space forbids explanation, where in all Coin Clubs and subscribers to "Cointact" only, may purchase these Future Numismatic Rarities at face value. Write-stamped add. envelope. Postage is a problem.

JES' THINKIN' .

You are now a part of an era of numismatics that is unsurpassed in the history of numismatics, collector-wise or investment-wise.

The Philadelphia mint, the Mother mint, far surpassed the Denver mint and San Francisco mint in coins struck during the period 1911-1950. Few collectors bothered to "put away" the P mints during that period. Examine the mintage of the 1949-P Franklin half, 6 million minted—Red Books $14.50. The 1949-D half, 4 million mintage—Red Books at $4.00. 1949-S half, 4 million mintage—Red Books $5.50. Examine the mintage of the wartime coins. This series does not reflect the analogy of the 1949-P half. According to Red Book or Trends, these coins are moderately priced, but try and purchase any coin of that period at well over the advertised price. Why? This is only the beginning of a new era in investing.

Suppose you had money to invest in coins—saw the beauty of hard money you could barter or trade for a jug of water, sustenance for a day, in comparison to a gilt edge security—understood enough about coin investing to buy the coin of tomorrow. Now comes over the teletype, 2,000 miles away, "Will sell rolls of this date coin, will buy rolls of that date coin" 24 hours a day, the machine is never quiet. Dealers on the West Coast working hand in hand with dealers on the East Coast. Many-many transactions take place without the merchandise (coin) being removed from the vaults. No actual exchange, except the profits. If you have money to invest, comes over the teletype rolls of brilliant uncirculated coins—You buy, regardless of cost.

The trend among most investors today seems to be "buy BU

The Numismatic Investment Bulletin

Post Office Box 748

Flushing, New York 11352

Vol. 1 No. 1

December 1963

75c A Copy - - - $7.00 A Year

INTRODUCTION

This is the first issue of NUMISMATIC INVESTMENT BULLETIN.

By following our suggestions you will enjoy good profits. When investing in coins you should follow these three steps:

1. If you do not have the money, do not invest.
2. If you do invest and the price goes down, don't panic. Hold on to the coins. This usually is a good sign as it gives other coins a chance to catch up in value. A good example of this is proof sets which dropped in price in October and November, but at the same time it gave the Roosevelt dimes a chance to increase in value.
3. When we state "in the near future" this does not mean "tomorrow". It refers to anywhere from two months to two years. Don't expect profits overnight.

The NUMISMATIC INVESTMENT BULLETIN is published monthly at the low price of 75c a copy or $7.00 per year. Compared to other investment sheets this is an extremely low price.

Many other investment sheets tell you to make a list of the trend of coin values each week and by studying the coins which were increasing in value, you could then take steps to invest. The NUMISMATIC INVESTMENT BULLETIN does not print this. We tell you what to invest in and you can be 100% sure that after a reasonable length of time our suggestions will bring you good profits. We do not claim any ridiculously high profits as some of the others do.

In the first issue you will notice that we have gone through a summary from 1/2c to proof sets, gold coins, etc.. In the future we will go into one or two items in greater detail and give you more dates to choose from.

In making up the bulletin we will go into a careful study of past performances, mintage (which does not always work out as the 1949P dollar in uncirculated condition indicates. Many were made and few were saved in the uncirculated state). Also, we have many experts advising us as to which coins will go up, etc.. We take all these into consideration and we also make a thorough study of the trends in the numismatic markets.

Buy only from a reputable coin dealer because many counterfeit gold pieces have been discovered. Buy only brilliant unc. pieces, not cleaned a.u. pieces.

If you follow our suggestions, the subscription price will more than have paid for itself.

COIN SHORTAGE

Government officials say that the coin shortage will reach the crisis stage within the next two or three years. This is based on the assumption that the demand will continue for coins at an incredible rate. It is one of the worst shortages in this nation's history. Of the $5 billion coins manufactured by the government since 1792, about 44 billion have been minted in the past 25 years. Production of coins has been stepped up in the last few years and it will reach close to 4.1 billion pieces by the end of next June.

The mints at Philadelphia and Denver are operating at near capacity. Both mints have three shifts and are working 8 days a week.

Some people believe that the vending machines are taking most of the coins. The vending machine companies say their business has not cause the shortage.

There is another belief that the coins are in the hands of collectors. The number of coin collectors has been estimated at between 8 and 12 million. Coin collecting has been advertized as a good investment and speculators buy them by the rolls. Other enterprises that takes a lot of coins is the tollway system and opening of more banks because of the growing population.

Congress last Aug. 20th appropriated $30,000,000 to build a third mint as well as an addition to the one in Philadelphia.

HIJACK $113,000 IN SILVER

A team of robbers hijacked a truck, held its driver captive for almost two hours and got away with an estimated $113,000 in silver bars.

The driver was to deliver 75 bars of silver, weighing a total of 5,500 pounds, to a National Lead Co. branch at 1300 W. 59th Chicago, Illinois. The silver was being shipped from New Jersey.

Investigators believe that the theft may be an inside job, and persons in Chicago and New Jersey who knew of the shipment are being checked by the FBI. Knowledge of the shipments is kept to as few persons as possible. Federal Bureau of investigation agents entered the case because of interstate shipping.

The truck driver Salvatore LaValle was seven blocks from his destination when he stopped for a red light. An armed gun man ordered him out of the cab of his truck and into a blue car.

A stocking cap was pulled over his face. He was then driven around for 2 hours and then released. He immediately reported the theft.

The large truck was found empty a short time later.

LaValle said at least three men were involved, the one who held the gun on him, the one who drove the auto, and the one who drove the truck away. He said the only man he saw clearly as being about 30 years old, weighing at least 155 pounds and standing 5 feet 10 inches tall. He said the man wore a dark jacket.

The estimated value of the silver is based on its current market price of $20.64 a pound.

Profit In Coin Investing A Current Appraisal Of A Fascinating Field

In recent weeks much attention has been focused upon the numismatic field with ever widening interest in the opportunities to be found in coin investments. The background of this unique field is long and well understood by many; to the uninitiated it often appears somewhat complex. Coin collecting is a widely practiced hobby for a sizable number of people variously estimated from five to ten million, and ranges from collectors of rare pattern coins, gold coins, and other expensive examples to those individuals seeking coins of different dates and mints from everyday change. Dies from which coins were produced are even collected (when overlooked from the melting pot by the issuing authority). A variety of collector seeks out commemorative medals which frequently simulate coins in design and beauty, examples of craftsmanship in engraving and manufacture. The range of the coin hobby is panoramic in its scope and people from every walk-of-life derive relaxation, pleasure, occupational therapy, in the absorbing effort of completing a "perfect set of such coins."

Coins have been the objective of collector interest since the early days of our colonies and have been preserved for future generations. Coins have often been collected during times of economic turbulence for their inherent value as "hard money" and have occasionally disappeared as "bad or paper money" drove out good or hard money. Coins dating back to antiquity are in more demand as collectors discover their existence and relate the coin to its historical setting.

Collecting coins both as a hobby and as a physical act involves creative labor. This together with scarcity instills value into the collected item whether it be small or large. This inherent value of a collection has been widely debated and constitutes a not infrequent problem to the heirs of vast collections including those responsible for its disposal, i.e. probate courts, trustees, and banks. While it is true that "beauty is in the eyes of the beholder" and likewise true that not all people appreciate the "beauty" in a coin; it is increasingly apparent collections are not just a bunch of old coins and fewer and fewer are discarded or stored in the ubiquitous cigar box.

The general public has oftentimes in the past been widely aware of the value of certain coins of unusual beauty or of extreme scarcity and intensive searching has been the result, e.g. 1913 Liberty nickel, 1908-S VDB Lincoln cent. Large sums have been expended for collections of high quality or large volume. This fact has escaped observation and until recently very few people realized the vastness of the interest in coins and the corresponding vastness of dollar sums invested in coins. Therefore it has been somewhat of a surprise to many with the advent of a modern convenience (the teletype system) it became obvious millions of dollars were being spent all over the country in this hobby. The American public collects many, many items from wads of tinfoli to Rolls Royce automobiles and it comes as no surprise to the experienced eye that numismatists annually pay in excess of $25 million just on books about coins.

Any avocation with this scope has a wide range of allied service enterprises, and small fortunes have been commonplace in such items as coin envelopes, coin holders, coin cleaning solutions, coin magnifying glasses, etc. A passing glance in any five-and-dime or corner drugstore will confirm that coin albums are a booming industry. It would seem obvious to even the casual observer that enterprising people have found unusual opportunities to improve and elevate the hobby and simultaneously enjoy the fruits of application of the profit motive to this field.

With the advent of modern highly technical electronic systems applied to coins dramatic and revolutionary changes began in the coin field. Rapid communications presented opportunity for even the smallest dealer in coins to supply customers with desirable coins without loss of business due to limited inventory. Pricing structure hampered by widely varying availability of coins almost instantaneously began to adjust as supply and demand functioned in a free market. Standardization of purchase and shipping methods appeared and renovation of methods of procurement and distribution became widespread with resultant improvement in virtually every respect.

Of even more significant importance, hitherto inapparent, data regarding availability of various coins became public knowledge and value of various coins began to adjust. This valuation has continued against the shifting background of change and will continue to adjust for the overall benefit of everyone concerned. Surprising and unexpected — albeit nonetheless true — a robust infant has appeared and shows all signs of becoming a vigorous adult.

In our modern economic system which is complex enough, attempting to invest wisely against the shifting background of monetary changes has made the most conservative policies of an earlier time extremely reckless in recent years. Likewise investment practices varied widely with the media selected and the individual involved. Selection of an investment is extremely important and must be accompanied by the determination of an appropriate program in order to be successful. The problem of selection is not easy and must take under consideration the aims and goals of the individual in relation to his available investment funds. These principles are well understood in the securities market and in the commodities market. They also apply in the coin market.

The universal prerequisite for successful investment in any media remains knowledge tempered with experience. Experience has proved that a favorable return in growth and income has long been available to those investing wisely in coins. The modus operandi has not been widely understood nor practiced. As statistical data from a thriving market becomes available for analysis and projection more and more understandable, the result will be the general public's insight and understanding of the opportunities for the advisable course for investment action. Some readers will be interested primarily in growth rates, some in experimentation, others in marketing — all these factors will be subjected to statistical appraisal and major conclusions will result and certain old theories justified, certain others disproved, and many newer ones introduced.

Careful study will demonstrate the opportunities available. The past furnishes testimony to the fact that value is present and positions may be taken in coins. Why else would a roll of Lincoln cents minted in San Francisco in 1909 and never placed in circulation be available to a dealer to sell as singles? It required initially obtaining the coin, storage of the coin, presumptive transactions involving the intact roll, until at last in 1964 it is broken open and distributed one by one to those people who have been unable to find one in circulation or who are collecting coins in uncirculated condition. This is true of such scarce mint coins as the 1831 San Francisco Lincoln cent for example; therefore the reason why people are collecting and storing 1905-S Lincoln cents in 1964, realizing that in 1964 someone will be collecting coins and will want a coin from a mint that is no longer in production and has not been in production since 1935. It is interesting to wonder "What will be paid for that coin in January, 1964?"

Pilot Edition

A Statement From the Publisher

This pilot issue of PACE is a "dry run" of a publication intended to serve the coin investment field. It will help introduce a new concept to coin investors: a newspaper covering your field of interest.

Time is a most important factor in coin investing. Our plan is to bring you the latest market information by many devices — both electronic and human. Our intention is to publish weekend prices for beginning of the week reading taking into consideration that no activity takes place on the teletype network on Sundays; this day will be utilized to full advantage for delivering the publication through the mail.

The statistical section will be based upon information generated from the American Numismatics Exchange and their 183 coin dealers. The full explanation on this section, the Market Pace will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Our audience for PACE will be fourfold: coin investors, the people who actually buy coins; coin dealers who sell coins; coin advisors and brokers who guide and purchase coins for investors; and finally, for the financial and investment public interested in coins as a new commodity investment.

As a pilot edition, this issue is

The COIN CABINET

ESTABLISHED AT MIAMI, FLA. THE PAPER FOR THE COLLECTOR - INVESTOR

WE OPEN THE COIN CABINET

So very much has happened since the last issue. We, the Government of the People, By the People and For the People, condemn numismatists, coin collectors, and coin investors.

This is not the first time we have heard this condemning of our Love. We are the only country in the world that cannot collect gold --- Buy it abroad for our collections. Now, no more proof sets --- This is almost a surety. Perhaps our governing bodies will condescend to dating coins as they should, but the sacrificial goat will be proof sets. Why do we have to be deprived of proof sets? Only because of narrow-minded shortsighted officials.

The one-and only reason the U.S. Mint cannot satisfy the demands of commerce for minor coinage is that they did not plan ahead or project this country's needs with the increase in population and vending type businesses.

This is all due to false economical cut back in the President Eisenhower Administration. Yes, do in two mints what was being done in three, don't work 8 hours daily in three mints, but 12 or 16 or 18 in two and don't forget time and a half or double time for all after 8 hours. Yes, we will impress some with our economy --- with the money we are saving the taxpayer.

KNOW THY NEIGHBOR

A funny thing happened to me the other day. Not really, funny though. A man walked into the shop for the first time. He introduced himself as a recently retired businessman under 40 years of age who had inherited a large sum of money. As we talked, I learned that the gentleman had, about a month ago, picked up a copy of a prominent weekly numismatic publication and became interested in the speculative market.

In a very short time, he had become quite well-versed in the coin news of the day and skillfully frothed forth with the usual standard terminology. The topic of B.U. rolls came up, and more than much to my surprise, my visitor inquisitively asked what "B.U." really meant. This simple question really set me to thinking. Here was a man who had already purchased over $1,000 worth of unc. rolls and didn't even know the short self-explanatory definition of the term "B.U." which is of course, as all of us know, "brilliant uncirculated."

Misinformation in our World of Coins, is costing dealers and new investors thousands of dollars every week. Needless to say, this isn't good for either party.

Many times it has been said that while we have the chance, we should "clean

SCAPEGOAT, U.S.A.

Then we originally opened The Coin Cabinet, we, perhaps, were a little naïve about our little paper and its place and purpose. Recent developments, that are vitally connected with numismatics, make it impossible for anyone to remain impartial.

I, of course, refer to the recent proposals, made by our Treasury Department and Mint Officials, to solve the 'coin collector problem'. This, as most of you already know, includes extending of the date 1964 on coinage for the next several years, and discontinuing the production of proof sets for an undetermined length of time so that additional equipment can be converted to mint regular coinage.

It has been determined that we coin collectors have influenced the total coin circulation to the extent that we deserve the attention of the Federal Government. We have, due to our interest in coins, caused a shortage.

A key word in discussing this subject is 'Vision or Insight'. It was vision that closed the San Francisco Mint in 1955 because we no longer were in need of three mints. It was vision that was three years late in determining that our present mint facilities were inadequate.

Right this minute as I write, Vision and Insight, to solving our coin shortage problem, has been proposed

CIVIL WAR STAMPS

Necessity is the mother of invention. The shortage of small change during the U.S. Civil War inspired many interesting pieces of currency.

During the Civil War, because of a shortage of silver, the government issued "greenbacks" or "Union Notes." These were printed on green paper and were used as legal tender. They were not redeemable in gold or silver, but they were accepted as such by the government. The first greenback was issued in 1862, and it was a one-dollar note. It was printed on green paper and had a portrait of George Washington on it. It was the first time that the United States had issued a paper note that was not redeemable in gold or silver.

The greenbacks were used for a short time, but they were not very popular. People did not like to carry around a lot of paper money, and they did not like to use it to buy things. The government tried to make them more popular by issuing them in larger denominations, but that didn't work either. In the end, the greenbacks were only used for a short time, and they were never really accepted as legal tender.

Another interesting piece of currency from the Civil War was the "Union Note." This was a one-dollar note that was issued by the Union in 1862. It was printed on green paper and had a portrait of George Washington on it. It was the first time that the United States had issued a paper note that was not redeemable in gold or silver.

The Union Note was used for a short time, but it was not very popular. People did not like to carry around a lot of paper money, and they did not like to use it to buy things. The government tried to make them more popular by issuing them in larger denominations, but that didn't work either. In the end, the Union Note was only used for a short time, and it was never really accepted as legal tender.

There were also "Civil War Tokens" issued during the war. These were small pieces of metal that were used as a form of currency. They were usually made of copper or brass, and they were used to buy things like food and clothing. The tokens were issued by the government, and they were accepted as legal tender. They were used for a short time, but they were not very popular. People did not like to carry around a lot of small pieces of metal, and they did not like to use them to buy things. The government tried to make them more popular by issuing them in larger denominations, but that didn't work either. In the end, the Civil War Tokens were only used for a short time, and they were never really accepted as legal tender.

1 Arm bandit holds UP MINT

I don't want to sound like a cry-baby but we think the Mint is playing favorites. I have a Treasury Department report on my desk which says in part that if the legislation pertaining to the freezing of the 1864 date is passed, they will mint Silver Dollars again. If not they will mint them in 1964. Now a month ago, we had a report saying "The more grand order."

They are going to use the current Pence design on the dollar. It was first issued in 1912 commemorating the declaration of peace between the U.S. and Germany and Austria. The last time it was used was in 1935. The design is the work of Anthony de Francisci. Only Denver will mint the dollars.

All available equipment is being utilized in the program now under way to relieve the coin shortage. When the filling of these orders is completed at the Mint in Philadelphia in November, the production will be expanded and the greenbacks used in the manufacture of coins for regular use. (Regular use?) Perhaps plans do not include the production of more coin production in 1964. The new silver dollars will not be minted until 1964.

The Mint figures on minting 40 million dollars for the use of the nation and so forth in the West where the silver dollar is used in slot machines, and I won't help but smile at the variety of that. However, it's already rumored that dealers are putting the price of 50.00 on the new dollar already and if the Mint thinks that all the speculators are on the last coast and none in the West and that the dollar will be used for what it was intended then I think that it's time somebody told them the facts of numismatic life. And if they have the time and the machinery to mint 40 million silver dollars, WILL SOMEBODY TELL ME WHY HAVE THEY GOT THE TON AND THE MACHINERY TO CONTINUE PRODUCE THEM?

Exhibited at St. Louis' Numismatic Assoc. Coin Festival

Steaming ALONG

In July, the two Mints in Philadelphia and Denver turned out 450.4 million coins—77% higher than the same month last year. Production of quarters was 140% higher while dime production rose 165 percent.

Still larger increases are expected this fall. The Denver and Philadelphia Mints are converting to additional coin press operations the space & facilities formerly used for production of nickel and bronze "strips". The latter material is now being bought from private industry.

Coins in the San Francisco Mint building, which was closed as a coinage Mint in 1975, is being cleared for the production of nickel and bronze "blanks" ready for final stamping into nickels and dimes at the Denver Mint. Facilities of the Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia are being utilized to stamp and clean coin blanks for the Philadelphia Mint.

The Mint presently has 60 coin presses. This number will be doubled by early next year. Eleven new coin presses are being built and will begin producing coins in November at both Mints. Six to furnish still another 15 coin presses have been received and orders will be placed this week for delivery beginning in January 1965.

Sixteen surplus presses, formerly used by the Department of Defense to manufacture ammunition, are being converted to coin production. The first of these will be installed and operating in October, the rest in November.

A PORTRAIT IN APOLOGUE

by L. C. Keller

There are in the coin collecting field today a type of individual dealing in coins, whose activities can be described as anything from simply out nice to actually illegal. Most can agree that his practices are at the least clearly unethical. The sale of coins of the person is a monetary profit. It is one no interest in furthering the hobby or helping collectors.

To him, the hobby is only an expedient and lucrative field of operation, and the latter are people, whose money he is very willing to take. Clearly he is not aware of the majority of coin dealers and true professional numismatists. However, really he is the only one who is often noticed, and who therefore, gives a bad name to the whole profession.

His techniques are all so familiar. He is wont to run large, pretentious advertisements in all of the leading numismatic publications. His intention here is to draw a large number of collectors in a short period of time. For he realizes that sooner or later he will be found out. The word will be circulated among collectors that he is the faker and phony that he is. Then the game will be ended.

To accomplish his intended ends, he usually offers only popular items, such as proof sets, uncirculated rolls, and silver dollars currently, at prices well below those of his competitors. These, however, are only "bait" items. For in small print, near the bottom of the ad, you will find the words, "prices subject to change without notice." This is his out, and he often makes use of it.

If you doubt this, just try ordering something from him. The chances are nine out of ten that your order will be returned. In your letter he will verify the same old and excuse. Sorry, sold out. Yet, the same items will be advertised by him in the next issue, though probably at considerably higher prices. This return will still take at the least, two weeks.

He doesn't really hurry to do anything. Besides, he needs time to see if perhaps he can buy the coins you ordered over the telephone (also known as the "electronic market") but he usually can't, at least not at a price that would give him the profit to which he is usually accustomed. Thus you are out your postage and the cost of the money order (he urges you to send a money order or a banker's check though he won't refund its cost if he is sold out as is usually the case.) # COIN COLLECTORS CLASSIFIED

Published by Numismatists
For Numismatists

Vol. 1 No. 1

Phoenix, Arizona

Price 20¢

The New 'Baby' is Born

After a gestation period of approximately one year and some intensive labor (pains) for the past two months Coin Collector's Classified has at last emerged. True it may not be a very big 'baby' but we all started small at one time.

Being a coin collector myself, I sincerely hope to give you, a place to advertise inexpensively as well as a paper inexpensive to subscribe to. We'll always be open to good suggestions.

Although Coin Collectors Classified is primarily an advertising journal for coin collectors from time to time we will have space for articles. Should anyone get the bug to write a numismatic article please feel free to submit for publication. We cannot offer any monetary reimbursement, but can assure your thoughts will be shared by thousands of other collectors.

Coin Collectors Classified is at present limited to a maximum of 48 pages (which we hope to attain in the near future) for quality control reasons. When there is sufficient demand we'll be able to publish more pages. We have the assurance of one of Phoenix's finest newspapers behind that promise.

Coin Collectors Classified is starting with circulation of almost 26,000. Of course those of you who know me more intimately already know the largest portion of these are relatives. I'm not sure that we make up the largest numismatic minded clan, but feel certain we'd run a close second.

Coin Collectors Classified is being published in magazine size to make it easier to carry with you. The smaller pages are easier to scan with a minimum of time and effort.

This of course also gives the advertiser an advantage. The smaller page size means his ad doesn't have to fight for attention as much as in those papers that are tab size. This is true no matter what size the ads.

Being published bi-weekly subscribers will have more time to scan the ads.

IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS

PLEASE NOTE THAT COIN COLLECTOR'S CLASSIFIED HAS PURPOSELY NOT TRIMMED THE TOP EDGE OF THE PAPER. THIS IS TO ALLOW THE POST OFFICE TO SORT IT AT TWICE THE RATE IF IT WERE TRIMMED. THIS WAY YOU ARE ASSURED OF GETTING EVERY PAGE. TO PREPARE THE PAPER FOR READING MERELY SLIT THE TOP OF THE PAPER WITH A LETTER OPENER WHERE INDICATED.

Zip Codes Important

After many discussions with the Post Office we find that the use of ZIP Codes definitely speeds processing of the mail. We were so impressed that our entire mailing list is made up numerically by ZIP Codes rather than alphabetically by city and states.

Dear Sir,

When I first heard about your publication I thought it was just another poorly printed throw-away. However when I received a sample copy today, I was really impressed by the neat, clear, and honest attempt at making a quality classified publication. I wish you the best of luck.

Don Vettel
Burbank, Calif.

Dear Mr. Pierce,

Just finished reading your wonderful new Bulletin. I am well pleased with it. I congratulate you for such good work. I think this bulletin has a great future. I am glad I had an ad in the first issue.

Sincerely,
Gerard Primeau

SAFE KEEPING OF COIN COLLECTIONS URGED

Robberies continue to plague the hobby, producing a problem of how to enjoy the hobby with our collection handy and yet "out-fox" the would-be robber! No use ducking the issue . . . as it won't go away by our ignoring it. There are ample reports to convince us that there is a real problem. Crooks have a way of learning where collections are kept and frequently go directly to the right spot when breaking in to commit the theft. The reports should be adequate warning for us to refrain from telling anyone where we keep a collection at home, even if in a safe!

A better way for safe keeping of one's coin collection is through use of a safe deposit box in a bank vault. Only then can we possibly benefit from it becoming public knowledge that we collect coins, but keep them safely in a bank. This could work to one's advantage, avoiding break-ins with the accompanying property damage and possible bodily harm.

The burning question may well be: "How can I work with my coin collection if it's in a safe deposit box at a bank?" The logical answer involves something each collector should have anyway: An accurate inventory record listing each item, its condition, cost and valuation. This should be done regardless of where one keeps a collection since it is necessary for insurance claims involving fire or theft. Equally important, it can be used with collections in safe keeping at a bank. Such a record makes it practical for the collector to know which items are still needed and which items can be upgraded. Actual working with the collections can be done at the bank, or insurance can be obtained to protect the maximum amount to be taken home at one time. If "peace of mind" is worth a reasonable expense, we don't know a better way to enjoy one's collection.

Guard J. E. Garrett greets our Editor, opening to the vault. The double-combination door weighs 18 tons! In addition to physical strength, there's 6 million dollars of insurance protection!

Unfortunately, we coin collectors can't single-handedly eliminate the existence of thieves, but we can discourage the present rash of robberies by protecting ourselves from becoming victims of the thieves. If it became common knowledge that coin collectors don't keep valuable collections at home, but instead in safe deposit boxes in banks, there would be fewer burglaries reported in the news.

Practice what we preach? Yes! We recently investigated the idea of using safe deposit boxes in banks. We learned that the cost is reasonable, access is convenient, and there's private work area available. If you are not making use of a safe deposit box, perhaps you'll consider the idea and become a customer at your bank as we did ours!

Paul Howes, V. P. of The American National Bank of Denver, shows MSCC Editor Barbara Rader the Safe Deposit boxes. 17 sizes are available.

Colorado Springs Still Strong Contender For A.N.A. Home

"Coin Week" Activities Reach Peak

The Honorable John Love, Governor of Colorado, recently designated April 24 - May 1, 1965 as COIN WEEK in Colorado. Les Bloom, President of the Jefferson County Coin Club, is pictured below with several members of his club at the proclamation signing. Many clubs and individuals in our western states are planning exhibits and other numismatic activities in observance of COIN WEEK. This is an annual event sponsored by the American Numismatic Association.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Everything? No. . . but a name is important! We've noticed folks having difficulty in remembering our rather long name "Mountain States COIN COLLECTOR" . . . and we've also received constructive criticism that we weren't including all of the "mountain states" either! So. . . looking objectively at the future and our longrange plans, we've decided to promptly modify our name to "WESTERN COIN COLLECTOR". This doesn't mean that we're immediately expanding our original coverage area, but that we're better set to grow into full coverage of all of the western states in time. Our eventual objective is to cover from Kansas City or Omaha, west!

SELECTION OF OMAHA for the A.N.A. home doesn't seem as much fact as printed reports would make it seem. Contrary to the idea that a final decision has been made, we are convinced that Colorado Springs remains a very strong contender and may well turn out to be the real location for the A.N.A. home.

OMAHA HAS A PROBLEM of coming up with adequate land, according to what we've heard from reliable sources. Attractions, such as loan of the Reed collection purportedly worth $1 1/2 million and Aubrey Bebee's famous collection of large size U. S. notes, can't ease nor solve the key problem. Hence the announcement of final selection of Omaha seems premature.

COLORADO SPRINGS has so much to offer that it's difficult for "us natives" to understand A.N.A. going anywhere else! It is a clean, modern, beautiful city ideally situated near the center of the nation, with many attractions. To mention a few, Pike's Peak, the cog railway, the Garden of the Gods, the Royal Gorge with the world's highest suspension bridge, the Cave of the Winds, the colorful Cripple Creek area, the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, Seven Falls, the U. S. Air Force Academy, the Broadmoor International Center, summer and winter sports, and so on. Located at the "foot of the Rockies", the weather is ideal, too. It all adds up to a wonderful place for collectors to visit and the A.N.A. staff to live! And it's readily accessible. . . be it by air (Continental, Braniff, Frontier and Central Air Lines), rail, bus or fine highways. Just as the United States Air Force looked over the U. S. for an ideal location and settled on Colorado Springs, so do we think A.N.A. can make a wise choice in headquartering there.

RALPH CLEAVER, a director of A.N.A., was asked by us as to qualifications of the Colorado Springs site. He said that over three acres of land have been offered, more than adequate for building, parking and even a picnic area, located within a few blocks of the new Antlers Hotel project now under construction near downtown Colorado Springs. Though he couldn't make a statement regarding final acceptance or rejection of Omaha, he agreed that Colorado Springs would be an ideal location and could still be considered a strong contender for the A. N. A. home.

Pace Publications of Fort Worth, Inc., Fort Worth, Texas

OCTOBER 8, 1965

Pace Under New Ownership

On August 27th, 1965, Mr. Eliot J. Cashden bought all of the assets of PACE from Space City Publications of Houston. All of the unexpired subscriptions will be fulfilled, and will run for the full term that they were originally supposed to make up the few extra copies necessary to make up for the period that PACE was not published every week. A corporation has been formed, Pace Publishing Co. of Fort Worth, Inc., and Cashden's interest in Pace has been exchanged for stock in the corporation.

PACE will be published on a weekly schedule in Fort Worth. The deadline for all news items and ads will be 5:30 PM every Wednesday. The paper will be printed Thursday evening, and mailed on Friday. This means that it will be in the hands of collectors and dealers no later than the first of the following week. This will give the readers the fastest service of any numismatic publication, with all of the latest up to the minute news and quotations. All of the advertising will be current as dealers will not have to read in ads weeks before publication.

Although we know it is humanly impossible to make everyone happy, we will break our necks trying. This is YOUR paper, and any suggestions that you may have to improve our service to you will be appreciated. We will be happy to print letters to the editor from any of our readers who have something to say. We will print all of the club news that is sent to us as well as announcements of shows and bourses. We will strive to bring you the finest columns weekly and hope that they will be of interest to all. 'Cashden's Coin Comments' will appear in each issue, and in the November 8th issue, the complete story of the Mexican proof set fiasco will be related by Cashden. Most of this story was written while Cashden was in jail in Mexico City, and some startling facts will be revealed. The managing editor of PACE is Mr. Tom Brown, who acted in that capacity in Houston for the past several months. He is very capable, and will do everything in his power to see that PACE is the best possible numismatic publication available.

The majority of readers and advertisers that were questioned seemed to prefer that PACE run the weekly bid and asked prices taken from the transactions over the various teletype systems. We would like to point out, however, that these prices represent transactions between dealers, sometimes in great quantities and lots, and that the wholesale bid and asked prices sometimes have little relation to the retail selling prices. In most businesses there is usually quite a spread between the wholesale and retail price of an item, but the coin business seems to be an exception to the rule. Collectors must realize though, that if a dealer cannot make a profit, he cannot stay in business. Of course everyone wants to buy coins as reasonably as he can, but nobody should expect to buy at the dealers' wholesale prices. As in any business though, prices vary from dealer to dealer. Quality also may vary, and these factors should be taken into consideration. PACE will not knowingly accept any advertisement of questionable material. We expect all advertised coins to be graded by Brown and Dunn standards. We also expect all of our advertisers to grant their customers a three day return privilege on any merchandise ordered through the mail. We also expect our readers to treat our advertisers fairly and not to return any ordered merchandise unjustly.

We will do our best to promote high ethics in the coin business, and we welcome your comments.

Feds Foul Felon's Fences

Hoodlums of St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City are concerned because authorities have become aware of their system of disposing of goods stolen throughout the Midwest.

It was partly for this reason that underworld representatives from the three cities were to have assembled in St. Louis. The meeting was canceled, however, when St. Louis police arrested four Chicagoans in the $100-a-day Presidential suite at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

Most stolen items, particularly jewelry, furs and coin collections, are "fenced" in the Chicago area. Some items are sent to Kansas City and Dallas. St. Louis is a collection point.

By U.S. Treasury Dept.

When the Lincoln cent made its initial appearance in 1909, it marked a radical departure from accepted styling, introducing as it did for the first time a portrait coin in the regular series. A strong feeling had prevailed against the use of portraits on the coins of the country but public sentiment stemming from the 100th anniversary celebration of Abraham Lincoln's birth proved stronger than the long-standing prejudice.

Change Considered

A change is being considered in the system, it was said, because federal and local authorities had been able to trace the movement of stolen goods.

The only person invited to participate in the formulation of the new design was Victor David Brenner. President Theodore Roosevelt was so impressed with the talents of this outstanding sculptor that Brenner was singled out by the President for the commission.

The splendid likeness of our 16th President on the obverse is an adaptation of a plaque Brenner executed several years prior which had come to the attention of President Roosevelt. In addition to prescribed elements — LIBERTY and the date — the motto IN GOD WE TRUST appeared for the first time on a coin of this denomination. Of interest is the fact that the

1965 New Zealand Coin Sets

1965 is the last year in which New Zealand coins will be issued under the pounds, shillings and pence system of currency. In 1967 New Zealand currency will change to the decimal system and the first issue of decimal coins will be made in that year.

Souvenir sets of the 1965 minting of New Zealand coins have been ordered from the Royal Mint, London, and advance orders of these uncirculated coin sets are being accepted now by the New Zealand Treasury. Delivery to purchasers will be made in March/April 1966.

Each set will consist of seven coins in the following denominations: half-crown (2s.6d.), florin (2s.0d.), shilling (1s.0d.), sixpence (6d.), threepence (3d.), penny (1d.), and halfpenny (1/2d.).

Three grades of coin sets will be available:

Bankers Coin Book

About 400,000 requests have been received for additional copies of the American Bankers Association's new question-and-answer booklet on new United States coins. The association mailed the 11-page booklet, "Facts About the New U. S. Coins," to each of its 10,000 member banks earlier this month.

The publication explains the elimination of silver in dimes and quarters and the reduction of the silver content in half dollars. It gives details on the composition of the new coins and explains how and when they will be minted and distributed.

1. 25,000 Polished Specimen Sets. These will be struck from specially polished dies and extra care will be taken with the blanks. The coins will be removed from the presses and handled individually. Extra care will be exercised in the final inspection. Price per set: $6.00 (U.S.), $6.50 (Canadian).

2. 75,000 Selected Production sets. These will be struck from new but unpolished dies, which will be replaced while still virtually unworn. Special treatment will be given to blanks and coins will be taken from the presses and handled individually. Price per set:

THE COIN MARKET REPORT 25c

JULY 15, 1968

ISSUED ON THE 1st AND 15th EACH MONTH

Dealer Transaction Report

The prices shown in this Report are dealer to dealer prices and do not reflect the retail market. Retail prices probably will range from 30% to 40% higher.

MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF SLIGHT UPWARD by Clark Childers 100 West Northham Little Rock, Arkansas

As a member of one of the major teletype circuits in the country I have observed during this past week one of the best weeks in some three or four months as far as activity and some prices were concerned. Bidding was at a faster pace than in quite a while, and selling was bringing reasonable prices in most cases.

As has been the case during the past ten months or so, the larger denominations are leading the way again. Halves and quarters were fairly active and dollars steady. Any declines were recorded for the most part in the small coins. No doubt the silver problem has had something to do with the trading in the larger coins, but there were indications during the past week that the investor-collector has returned to these items.

Such items as the 60p small date penny and 1953 nickels have slipped again. Such items as these should prove to be real investment items at the low prices quoted during the past week on these low denomination coins. Although the price is down now, it is my opinion that this decline will not last much longer and the wide awake investor can really make some good buys at today's prices. The 1944 nickel is another item to decline sharply. In contrast to some of the past weeks when the Jeffersons held their own to some extent, this week saw many items in this series take a downward plunge. The "Key" 1950d was steady for the past week, however giving indications that the series might not go much lower.

It is my opinion that the best chance for profit taking lies in the Roosevelt series. During the past week they did not fall off as they have during some of the past weeks, however the prices are very very low for some of the low mintage items in this series. The sets themselves are almost 20.00 off. . . . and anytime you can buy a nice BU set of almost any coin for less than 100.00 you have a real buy. . . yet these Roosevelt sets were traded for as low as 65.00 during the past week.

One note worth mentioning here is the fact that during the past few months while some of the BU rolls have declined, the older type material seems to be as hard to get as ever before. Even some of the key material such as the 1938d halves are very hard to buy along with such items as 1922d and a quarters 1921d dimes. This gives the collector a real pep on the back because he has good sound items when he puts together some sets of older, good quality, coins.

A LOOK AT THIS WEEK'S MARKET

Cents
for the most part all rolls down in this series.

1953a cent off now to 26.00.
1954a cent off another dollar to 13.75.
1960p cent small date, down to the very low figure of 310.00.
1939d cent down to a very low 175.00.

Nickels
1941s down to 47.50.
1943d off to 130.00.
1944s down very much to 85.00.

Dimes
This series ran off as much as during the past weeks and for the most part only very slight drops. Almost all dates can be considered as on par with past week or two.

Quarters
1946d off to 85.00.
1955d very down to 130.00.
1958p seems to have come up slightly to 50.00.

Most other dates held their own.

Half-dollars
1955p seems steady now at 154.00.

All other dates seem to have held their own in comparison to past weeks prices.

Proof Sets
Almost to the set the same as last week and week before.

1964 steady now at 13.00.

ODDITIES, ERRORS, AND FDS

by CLAUDE FITCH

COIN SHOP, HOTEL MARION

Dear people several months ago when Roger and Cleve asked me to write this little old article, I felt that it would be a waste of time; but recently I got a letter from a young fellow in Adel, Iowa and I would like to quote a few words from Mr. Don Mark's letter. He says that my column has "awakened his incentive to look for mint errors". He goes on to describe several mint errors that he has found in circulation in the last few weeks. Apparently, we have gained a new field collector. I would like to hear from more of you in regard to errors you have found, however, I do not feel that it is necessary to call me long distance as Mr. Chu-fung of Eudora, Arkansas, who did indeed take the time, trouble, and expense to call me long distance. Apparently, he has found a very rare error, or at least as far as I know, a five-cent piece struck by a copper planchet (planchet means the metal that a coin is struck on).

My opinion, and it is just an opinion, is that almost all errors dated 1964 are worth much less than errors with any other date. The reason for this, of course, is the mints. They are working seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. Interesting enough, all of the 1964 errors that I have found (clipped planchet, double die, off center, etc.) dated 1964 comes from the Denver mint. I would like very much for any of you to tell me of any errors that you have from the Philadelphia mint. Talking with some of the mint employees from the Denver mint we found that the director of the mint is concerned about the amount of errors being released into circulation and this, of course, is the reason the 1964 mint errors are not worth so much as other errors. As to you Mr. Chu-fung your copper nickel may be worth 5 figures or more.

I am for the first time starting a mail bid auction in the COIN MARKET REPORT and included will be mint errors providing I can scrounge up a few from you dear people. So please if any of you have mint errors that you would like to sell please get in touch with me immediately. Send them to Claude Fitch, Coin Shop, Marion Hotel, Little Rock, Arkansas.

We will be looking for all of you in Mobile to say hello to you and all that sort of jazz.

A TIPS VIEW ON COINS by PAUL WHITMAN

A funny thing happened to me on the way to the forum: I was stabbed. These words were spoken by Julius Caesar. Well, the same thing happened in my case. Mr. Luker called this morning and informed me my copy was due 4 days early. I was stabbed. So as a result of this and the 4th of July my column will be short.

Are you a true numismatist? You can't be without a Red Book (a Guide Book to United States Coins). The 1968 Red Book went on sale July 1. This book contains all of the latest price changes from the last year. To look at this book one would be amazed, it has improved remarkably from the first day it was issued, not only in size but in quality. It contains all of the mintage figures, a grade guide, current prices, and

RECOMMENDATIONS by Roger Luker

We think that now is the most opportune time to purchase coins due to price reductions, than at anytime in the past five or six years. The enthusiasm in coin collecting is at an all time high with an ever increasing number of collectors being added each day. Recent scares, for various reasons, have caused Key rolls and singles to plunge to an unprecedented low. There is no doubt that if you take advantage of these low prices that you will earn a substantial profit in a relatively short period of time. We strongly recommend the following purchases:

	Buy At
55p Dimes . . . . .	$2.50
43D Nickels unc. . . . .	135.00
44S Nickels unc. . . . .	90.00
51S Nickels unc. . . . .	289.90
58p Dimes unc. . . . .	35.00

It was only a short time ago that all of these rolls were a minimum of 30% above these figures. I know of no other business where you can purchase an item today with an additional 8,000 people each day in the future desirous of what you have. Get on the profit wagon now and purchase some of these Key rolls at these reasonable prices. Remember the Bible bill has been withdrawn and prices have only one way to go — up.

a history of each coin. So you can see that it would be well worth it to locate one at the nearest hobby shop.

There has still been no status change in the bill introduced by Senator Bible. So keep those letters rolling into Washington. The letters that have already been sent in seemed to be having a direct effect on Senator Bible and his bill.

Until next time, keep smiling. The next penny you receive might be a 9-S-VDB.

NO DEADLINE IS THE 10TH OF EACH MONTH

MAILING DATE IS THE 15TH OF EACH MONTH.

Dear to Rochester, N.Y. mailer for Statehood Day!

and how are you all this fine day? I was sure we'd smash our record for an October issue this month, but we fell a few bits short 683 ads against 684 ads in 1985. Then the 10th quality not quantity that really counts.

The United States averages 90 persons per square mile. How bout that all?

How about those Buffalo Bills, already they have gotten twice the number of wins that they had last year, the the next 2 games are kind of rough, Oakland then Miami.

Had dinner with Stan & Linda and Linda's mom in Buffalo, the other night. When we asked the father if it mattered who paid the check, he said no. But you know he didn't like the idea of himself having to pay for it! For of course we selected him to pay it.

Say! He also had no sense yet, its just as well tho, haven't had time to get the new-fries on yet!

Did you know that the 21st of this month is known as "Sweetest Day"?

By the year 2000 a nuclear war in N.Y. will run $500 to $600 a day. A day's pay just like that!!!!

Arkansas has the only diamonds mined in the United States.

Happy anniversary Stan & Linda.

Drink or treat!

See where the spot windows on the 733 cars are optional. Gotta admit Detroit! sure know how to take the public for a ride!

Tomorrow is "Rumors are flying day" or be nice to "A Souther day"

That's me a Souther!

When does Indian Summer start? For that matter when does summer start!

PENNY PINCHER also is to join the small collector-trade-his/her cards of a reasonable ad rate, thus not too much money is needed to complete your job. Of course there are many people who just like to trade, for the sake of trading. While you will be making your coins you will meet a lot of the greatest people in the world. He still need a subscription from the state of Wyoming, but then Wyoming's resident moved!

Also we need a subscriber from Connecticut: Still looking for a Souther.

If you have trades still you find this month, there are a lot of real nice deals, hope I get time to get to a few of them myself.

Please don't be alarmed, but due to the holiday (Confusion Day) the mail got messed up a wee bit, so this issue is starting out in your direction on the 16th rather than the 15th. But I'm sure you will understand, these 77 hour days last are a wee bit too short.

Just then is going to make me a few more than, I'm only out 25 hrs. It can wait!

My just got a letter from Philadelphia, it was sent with a Canadian stamp. Now you know that ain't right. Canadian stamps can only be used in Canada, as only US stamps can only be used in the states.

NOTE stands for Self Addressed Stamped Envelope!

Each month I receive ads, that don't state what I type of ads to being traded, it helps to read your ads over before you write them.

Next week is "Stop Copying Day"

Sorry I'd better let you all get to these ads, we are out to beat 688 ads, so that set our record November 1985...1986

See you all next month...Dad Truly said 80% said to say HELLO!!!!

Have a great 1986.....Frank

Grading Your Clad Coins

Reprinted from "Coin Column," by Lee Martin

Interpreting the amount of wear a coin has received is the most difficult phase in coin collecting. A coin can be a good or poor investment depending upon the actual price paid for the grade of the coin.

Our new clad coins consist of coins rushed into circulation and because the nickel is so hard, wear of the coins are weakly struck. In this case, "weakly struck" does not mean the dies lightly careased the planchets, but rather the dies made little impression on a tough metal surface and the details were lacking. The quarter is an especially contradictory coin to grade as the eagle's breast feathers may be lacking on new specimens.

Almost all grading books base their views on the silver coins and the V.D.B. reverse, rather than the Memorial cent. The clad coins are too new to be effectively analyzed for wear points but in using a micrometer, some distinctive areas appear vulnerable.

The Lincoln cents made since 1965 have been discussed in the article devoted to them. The Jefferson nickel is graded by the wear at the building on its reverse. Brown and Dunn's book, "A Guide to the Grading of United States Coins" is a classic and effectively answers all problems about the five-cent piece. As it was written in pre-clad coin days, it cannot detail the condition flags of these coins.

A clad quarter dated 1965 was missing details in the wing area of the portrait. It lacked depth throughout and appeared vulnerable to wear in the date; the reverse was also shallow. The eagle's wings, generally an important grading guide, were weak and too light to be used as such. The rim will certainly receive the hardest wear and the eagle will be another point to observe. When grading the new quarter, the OVERALL condition should be noted and not a small area.

The clad dime has fared no better in its new state. Lack of pronounced details on the torch place intruded coins into grades less than extra fine on many occasions. The red edges vary with the coin. Some are very "copperish" in tone and others are almost indistinguishable from a silver coin. The disparity indicates changes in grading techniques will be mandatory. Wear should occur on the portrait above the ear and in the hair area. Again, overall condition should be used as a barometer. I anticipate some red lined coins in the next five years as the surface becomes eroded.

The forty percent silver surface of the Kennedy half dollars have placed them in a separate category. The many coins that temporarily entered circulation have produced wear—more and these are the high spots such as the portrait's cheek, the hair area near the forehead and the ear. The reverse, with its many details, has been hard to examine as some details are obscured on many coins. The shield on the eagle's chest, once a signpost, is now not often borne of minute lines when milled. The rim of the half dollar is very susceptible to wear and should be closely examined. Of all the new coins, the clad silver half is the most varied in edge coloring. Examine a roll and the colors will range from a faint bluish to deep copper. This has little to do with grading but has little to do with grading but

Austria, numismatically, can be a very confusing country. Yet, once a collector or dealer figures out just what is going on in Austrian numismatics, he can gain a lot. Ordering coins from Austria is where many troubles lie. Austria puts forth many numismatic opportunities. These, however, are complicated, confusing, and often change, leaving many numismatists in the dark about ordering Austrian coins.

One confusing aspect about ordering Austrian coins is the minimum limit Austria puts on all orders. Most countries have a maximum limit on the number of coins one may order. This is so that they will be able to handle all orders. Austria tackles the problem in the opposite manner. It puts a large minimum limit on all orders and thereby discourages most collectors from ordering. This method is actually best as far as the distributor in this case Austria is concerned as a few large orders can be handled easier than many small ones. However, even distributors are certainly not the result as it is with a maximum limit.

On the whole, this does not bother most collectors. They just buy the Austrian coins at marked up prices from coin dealers who are in a position to make the large purchases. These collectors don't have to go through the ordering process which is also confusing.

The fact that Austria's limit is a minimum rather than maximum limit is not the only confusing thing about it. It has also been changed enough to leave dealers doubtful as to whether they are working with the correct limit. At one time there was no minimum limit and so order of $1 could be placed for Austrian

by Douglas Lightner

coins. Swamped with small orders, the Austria Mint created a $25 minimum limit. Perhaps this limit just made people buy more because this was again changed to $150. Now the Austrian Mint seemed to find that they had overdone it. They lowered the minimum ordering limit to $50. The $50 limit is where it stands today.

What Austria offers and the price it offers it at changes each year adding more confusion to collectors trying to find out what is being sold at what price. To avoid this confusion, one should not study past offers and prices but just take note of the current situation.

To collectors this year is a 1966 Austrian proof set consisting of the silver 10 and 5 schilling pieces and the minor 1 schilling, 50, 10, 5, and 2 proshens. Wrapped in tissue paper, this set sells for $12. The same set is also available in a welded plastic envelope for $12.50. This envelope is imprinted "Austrian Proof Set - 1966". Prices for all sets and coins are in U.S. funds and do not include postage.

The second Austrian numismatic item is a nine coin proof set. This set contains the seven coins mentioned before plus commemorative 50 and 25 schilling coins. The set is available in a special plastic pouch and is priced at $5.30. The coins in this set may also be ordered separately in either proof or uncirculated condition.

The famous Maria Theresa taler is a third item offered. This trade coin is priced at $1.07 in uncirculated condition and at $1.17 in proof.

For a fourth and final item, Austria offers just commemorative 25 and 50 schilling pieces. Different commemorative 25 schilling coins have been struck yearly since 1955. The 50 schilling coins have been issued yearly since 1963. One was also struck for 1959. Unlike the 1966 issues, these past issues are not offered in uncirculated or proof condition. The commemorative coins are circulated and range in condition from good to very good. The 25 schilling coins are 97 each and the 50 schilling coins are priced at $1.94.

As mentioned before, all prices are in U.S. funds and do not include postage and handling which is about $3.50 for a 150 order. If you want to order the coins, write your order out and send it to the Austrian Mint, The Austrian Mint will then send you a proforma-invoice showing the cost of your coins. The postage and handling charges will be shown separately.

The amount of the proforma-invoice is to be paid in dollars to the account of the Austrian National Bank at any of the following New York City banking institutions: Chase Manhattan Bank, Irving Trust Co., or First National City Bank. Payment is to be made in favor of the Austrian Mint, Vienna. Coins will be forwarded upon notification by the respective bank of the receipt of the proforma-invoice. Delays are quite possible.

The addresses of the banks mentioned are: Chase Manhattan Bank, 1 Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10015; First National City Bank, 339 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022; Irving Trust Co., 1 Wall St., New York, N.Y. 10005.

The address of the Austrian Mint is: Österreichische Nationalbank, Wien 111, Am Hofmarkt 1, Austria.

Payment by bank draft direct to Vienna should be avoided if possible. This creates substantially higher postage costs which the collector or dealer must pay. It will also cause a 30 to 35 day delay.

Now that you know how to order, here is some information about the modern commemorative coins. Commemoratives are now issued only in the 25 and 50 schilling denominations. However, at one time 2 schilling coins were used as commemoratives. The 50 schillings are of .800 fine silver and are 34 millimeters in diameter. The 30 millimeter 25 schillings are of .800 fine silver. The 1965 and 1966 50 schillings honor the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Vienna University and the Austrian National Bank respectively. Ear-

Starting with our May issue of "THE RESTRIKE" we will change the size of our paper from 8 1/2 x 11 to 7 x 8 1/2. In doing so we will also be changing to elite size type. We feel that this size type will be beneficial to all as it is easy to read and will enable us to keep our same low advertising rates.

We have had a few inquiries as to why there is no postmark on our paper. The reason for this is that our stamps are pre-canceled by the Post Office to save time in mailing the paper. It sometimes takes close examination of the stamp to see that it has been canceled. Some of you may be receiving your paper with the stamp canceled in another part of the country. The reason is that even the Post Office Department is not always able to detect the canceled stamps.

BEST OF '67

story behind the award-winning Poseidon medal

The Mardi Gras celebration in New Orleans this year was even more of a spectacle than in previous years, if one can imagine such a thing. It seemed that there were more parading groups and maskers than ever before; the season was longer, extending from New Year's Day right up to the actual date of Mardi Gras, Feb. 7. And, more of interest to the medal collector, about twice as many of these parading and masking groups issued their own medals, to be thrown to the crowds lining the parade routes.

To be more exact, the 1967 Mardi Gras season saw over 70 different types of aluminum medals thrown to the crowds. If one desires to count the varieties of finish, from plain aluminum to gold, purple, green, red or blue anodized types, the total is well over 100. But, speaking only of how many different designs were produced, and not going into these further varieties, we come up with a total of over 70 different. Some were cheaply produced, with nothing but plain lettering; some used the most intricate and involved artwork possible.

To encourage excellence in Mardi Gras medal design, and to provide recognition for the most talented of the designers, the Crescent City Coin Club, of New Orleans, set a precedent this year. They decided to give an award for the best Mardi Gras medal of the season! Out of over 70 different designs, they were to choose the very best. With the great number of medals produced, this was no easy task; various qualifications were set up by the award committee.

The award was sponsored, in the first place, out of a sort of civic pride; every New Orleanian is vitally interested in the annual Mardi Gras celebration, famed the world over. So, in view of the public nature of the Mardi Gras festival as a spectacle for the populace, the award committee decided to judge only the publicly distributed medals — i.e., the aluminum specimens that were actually thrown from parades to the spectators.

So, the heavier bronze and silver medals which exist of most types were not considered. Likewise, the competition was open only to Mardi Gras organizations of the greater New Orleans area, as defined by the committee.

Thus, ground rules limited the scope of medals under consideration to include only the 1967 aluminum pieces thrown at parades in the New Orleans area, these being the medals of the most public interest. Such factors as originality of concept, execution of the design, and actual finished appearance of the medals were considered carefully by the committee.

Though the competition was keen, for the award had been announced well before Mardi Gras, it was no great surprise to most medal enthusiasts that the "Best of '67" award went to the Krewe of Poseidon. Looking at the illustrations on this page, most readers will conclude that it is, indeed, a very beautiful medal, with imagination, original concept, and superb execution by designer H. Alvin Sharpe (who else!) So, what goes on behind the scenes? How does one go about producing an award-winning design? What is the significance of this particular theme?

H. Alvin Sharpe, who designed the first Mardi Gras aluminum "doubloon" for the Rex organization in 1960, has been turning out medallion designs ever since, sometimes cutting his own dies by hand, without a preliminary sketch. So when a committee from the Krewe of Poseidon came to him in the early fall of 1966, seeking a medal which would be artistic, original, and appropriate to their organization, they soon knew that they had come to the right place.

Surprisingly, many of Sharpe's medal designs have never seen production, and are not generally known or generally available to the public. Sharpe is an artist in the true sense of the word. When he is not busy producing designs for commercial medal issues, Sharpe works on the hand-cut dies for which he is noted. As other artists do paintings, Sharpe cuts many dies simply for esthetic satisfaction, not to order for anyone in particular, with the idea in mind that sometime, perhaps many years hence, there will be a commercial demand for the particular design he has created.

In the case of the Krewe of Poseidon, Sharpe had an idea that he had been kicking around for years, waiting for the right person or organization to utilize it in some commercial application. He wanted to produce a series of medals on the ships of history, an outline of man's progress on the seas.

It should be noted here that the Krewe of Poseidon is one of the many Mardi Gras organizations named after Greek Gods. This is an interesting aspect of the celebration which effectively combines Greek mythology with this Christian religious holiday. Of the major

HOWDY FOLKS!

THANK YOU FOR THE FINE LETTERS AND ORDERS FROM THE LAST ISSUE. WE'VE GOT A BUSY LISTING THIS MONTH TO GO THROUGH. WE RECEIVED GOOD RESPONSE ON EVERY CATEGORY WE LISTED AND ARE BUSYING ON THE ACTION.

THE PICTURE ABOVE IS A "PUSH OVER VIEW" OF OUR SHOP IN WUNDERLAND THE STORE ISN'T REALLY RUNNING BUT IT'S NOT DONE ABOUT THE COUNTERS THAT TAKE THE ACTION. IF YOU CAN MAKE US OUT, WE WANTED IT AT THE BACK THAT'S THE LEFT OF CENTER. IF YOUR TRAVELS BRING YOU TO OUR FOUR CITY, COME IN AND SEE US. OUR NEW ACTION AND DISPLAY AREA IS INDICATED BY THE ARROW AT LEFT OF PICTURE.

THIS HAS BEEN A BUSY WEEK FOR OUR COLLECTORS. THE COMMISSION HAS LISTED THE RESTRICTIONS ON THE 1933 GOLD COINS--WE CAN NOW BRING IT INTO THE COUNTRY WITH NO TROUBLE. THE FIRST BAN HAS BEEN LIFTED ON U.S. SILVER COINS. THIS COULD BE GOOD OR BAD FOR THE COLLECTOR.

IF THE SILVER SILVER-SILVER COINS CALLING A COUNTER MESSAGES IN SILVER, PLEASE, MANY INDIVIDUALLY SCARCE SILVER COINS COULD BE BROUGHT ALONG WITH THE COMMISSION. MANY FIGURES MAY BE LOWER AS A GUIDE AS TO VALUE. SINCE NO DATE RECORDS HAVE OR WILL BE KEPT AS TO WHAT DATES ARE BEING BROUGHT, SOME CUMULATIVE COLLECTORS COULD COME UP IN THE FUTURE. THE LATEST NEWS IS THAT THE TREASURY HAS FINALLY FOUND A WAY TO SELL THE MILLIONS OF SILVER DOLLARS THEY HAVE. I DON'T KNOW THE DETAILS YET BUT I HOPE I GET MY SHARE.

THE LOWEST FORM OF VERMIN IN MY BOOK IS THE LERCH WHO WISE A DEALER SHIP TO MAKE HIS OWN DEALS AND CONTRACTS IN. THEY COME IN MANY DIFFERENT TYPES BUT NONE OF THEM ARE ANY GOOD FOR DEALER OR HOBBY.

THE FIRST DEALER IS A VERY IMPORTANT ADVISOR BETWEEN THE BUYER & SELLER OF A COLLECTOR'S ITEM. THE DEALER HAS VERY HEAVY DUTIES IN THE FORM OF RIGHT, CALIBER, ADVERTISING, PROTECTING, EQUIPMENT TO MENTION A FEW. THE IDEA, AS OLD AS HISTORY ITSELF, IS FOR THE DEALER TO MAKE A MARKET ABOUT THIS OVERHEAD TO LIVE ON (IT'S NO EXCEPTION).

THE VERMIN I SPEAK ABOUT COME IN DIFFERENT TYPES BUT THEY ALL BRING PEOPLE FROM THE DEALER. THE FIRST TYPE IS THE VEST POCKET DEALER WHO WILL HAVE AROUND THE SHOP UNTIL HE SEES A GOOD CATCH. HE WILL WAIT, FOLLOW THE BUYER AROUND, THEN MAKE HIS MOVE. HE DRIVES HIS LAMBS FROM HIS CAR TO THE CUSTOMER. THIS TYPE IS USUALLY A SHAMMY MERCHANT OF OVERPRICED ITEMS BUT THE BUYER (THINKING THE DEALER IS CHEAPER ON THE OTHER SIDE) BAYS.

FIRST TALLAHASSEE SHOW A HIT

Hugh Turley talks to Don Simmons of Houston's Auto City Coins. Simmons was one of the dealers who came to the First Annual Tallahassee Coin Show.

The coin show had to do the people. A continuous rain didn't keep the curious and the collectors from the 1st Annual Tallahassee Coin Show held August 2nd and 3rd at the new Holiday Inn in Tallahassee, Fla. After registering at the doors of the Empire Room, the visitors wandered past the displays of twenty-two dealers from five southeastern and southwestern states.

Items of numismatic interest were exhibited in great variety. There were Lincoln pennies, Spanish escudos, German halfpenny currency in addition to a valuable 1879 four dollar gold piece. One dealer had an ancient Chinese plated which drew much interest.

A local radio station, WHEK, did remote broadcasting from the house, interviewing guests and dealers. The Collector's Journal publisher and show sponsor, Hugh H. Turley, was also interviewed.

The success of the two-day show has prompted plans for another show the first week in January.

Editor Jon Owen visits local dealer Ken Merwin and Ron Gumbel at their table. Merwin is showing a set of ironclads.

Three of the many valuable and rare coins displayed at the Tallahassee Coin Show. At left and right a 1879 four dollar piece; center a 1796 half. Displayed at show in collection of Auto City Coins.

Fellow dealer and collector Dr. John Sheppens, Jr., stops by the table of Orlando's Dave Sheddoff to discuss coin transactions.

The summer of 1969 will be remembered as the summer of the collector. Not knowing what new's first collection of space rocks and matter and The Collector's Journal begins its new life with this issue, a publication intended for the serious collector of coins, stamps, art and antiques. Both endeavors are tentative first steps which hopefully will lead to bigger and better things.

The Apollo 11 moon adventure was given fantastic coverage by the communication media and we have at The Collector's Journal hope to cover our fields just as completely. We have long believed that "in depth" coverage of numismatics, philately, art and antiques was lacking and we hope to fill the vacuum with this monthly.

Of course, being a monthly we can take the time necessary to cover a certain field or event.

Philadelphia hosts the annual A.N.A. Convention August 12-16 at the Sheraton Hotel. They are anticipating a crowd of 25,000. Don't miss it!

with the thoroughness and research that a weekly cannot afford. We believe the contents of our initial issue will reflect this diligence.

As our name indicates, we are a paper for collectors of collectors. Though we concentrate on the four "major" collecting areas, we do not intend to neglect the other hobbies such as bottles, antique guns, buttons, railroad memorabilia, etc.

Grandfather had a group full of old licensed plates and Grandma a basement full of trunks. We're all collectors of something. It seems to be part of our human make-up. We're certain, therefore, that the reader will find his specialty somewhere in our pages.

If not, be sure and let us know. We'll start a collection of empty letters.

A FEW WORDS FROM THE PUBLISHER...

This is the first issue of the consolidated version of COIN MONTHLY. I again would like to thank Mr. Lawrence Pugh of "Coin Traders" for all of his help and cooperation in the consolidation. I think that you will find more of everything in this issue!!! I would like to thank all of my readers for sticking with COIN MONTHLY from the first in late 1969 when one issue had only 6 pages. I also appreciate very much the kind letters that many readers have sent to me. All I can say is THANKS!

Sincerely,
Arthur Crowover

THE WORLD OF COINS

The 1970-S large and small date cents were apparently caused when one of the Bureau of the Mint's engravers decided to do a good job. The end result of his efforts was the creation of two distinct varieties of 1970-S cents, in both proof and circulated strikes. It seems that after the production of the 1970 cent dies, one of the engravers sharpened the date in the master die. The master die is used to create the working dies used to strike individual coins. This handiwork of the engraver resulted in a significant lowering of the top of the '7' in the date. The sharpening was done early in the year, "after some of the other dies (the small date version) which were being used had been made." The small date versions of the 1970-S cents can best be distinguished from the large date variety by virtue of the fact that the top of the '7' in the date is in line with the other digits. It is lower or out of line on the large date. Additional identifying features include a general weakness of the legends of the small dates, a sharp, square edge, and heavier thickness of the small date -- 49 small date cents equal in height to a stack of 50 large dates.

1970 MINT SET ORDERS BEING ACCEPTED

The United States Mint is now accepting orders for "U.S. Uncirculated Coins" dated 1970. The uncirculated sets contain pieces manufactured for general circulation, with the best selected for use in these sets. Each set consists of a 1c, 5c, 10c, 25c, and 50c piece from the Denver mint; a 1c, 10c, and 25c piece from the Philadelphia Mint; and a 1c and 5c piece from the U.S. Assay Office at San Francisco. The price of $2.50 per set includes First Class Registered Mail and the maximum number of sets per order is five (5) sets. Payment should be made by check or money order made payable to Officer in Charge, U.S. Assay Office, Numismatic Service, 350 Duquesne Avenue, San Francisco, California 94102. DO NOT SEND CASH.
